Nazis in full retreat before British Eighth

COLLETT PLEA IS NOT GUILTY

Farmer Arraigned in Washington C. H. on First Degree Charge.

By ARTHUR S. BOSTWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON C. H., O., Dec. 4—Elderly James W. Collett, nervous and uncertain, sat in the back room of a jewelry store today and stammered out a plea of innocence to a charge that he slew his wealthy brother-in-law, Elmer McCoy, Thanksgiving eve.

Passing unnoticed, the 60-year-old Clinton county farmer walked with Sheriff W. H. Icenhower down this town's main street to the office of Justice of the Peace George Worrell, who sells jewelry when not attending to legal matters.

No one was aware of the sudden arraignment, and only Icenhower, Worrell, two newspaper men and two city police officers looked on as the justice laid down business for a few minutes and bound the confessed killer to the Fayette county grand jury and ordered him held without bond.

As he walked into the little office that is a court, Collett startled under the glare of a flashbulb. He stiffened.

"What's that newspaperman doing here?" he demanded.

"This court is open to any one," Worrell responded.

Collett sat down wearily in a chair before Worrell's desk. The justice read the first degree murder warrant and asked how the defendant plead.

Wants Lawyer First

"I don't want to say anything until I'm represented by a lawyer," Collett replied. "I don't know just what to do."

Icenhower remarked:

"Jim, you've known me all my life and if your attorney was here he'd probably tell you to plead not guilty and waive to the grand jury."

"Well, I'd still rather not do anything."

Worrell explained Collett must do one of two things—plead innocent or guilty, and in either event he would be held to the grand jury.

"If I plead not guilty, what's the next move?" Collett probed.

"I would hold you to the grand jury," the justice repeated.

"I don't know what to do. I dont know anything about this law business."

Icenhower spoke up again.

"Jim, you know I wouldn't lie to you," he said.

"No I don't think you would."

Then, at the suggestion of the justice, Forrest Tipton, general manager of the Record-Herald, reaffirmed that in such instances a defendant always was held to the grand jury.

So, then, Collett said he was innocent and Worrell held him to the grand jury.

Returned To Jail

Icenhower led him back to jail through the streets crowded with Saturday morning shoppers. Collett's hat was pulled down well over his face, his coat collar was turned high. He walked with his head down.

McCoy, his wife, Forrest, 64, and their daughter, Mildred, 22, were found shot to death Thanksgiving morning. Apparently all had been slain within a few minutes of 9 p. m. the previous night.

An affidavit filed by Prosecutor John B. Hill charged Collett only with the murder of McCoy. He said charges in the deaths of the wife and daughter would be sought before a grand jury.

The 60-year-old Collett is being held in the Fayette county jail here.

Ten Tons Reported Gathered in City Clothing Campaign

Approximately 10 tons of discarded clothing were collected in a drive staged here yesterday George H. Alber, chairman, announced today. The drive, part of a nationwide campaign conducted by Defense Supplies Corp. was carried on in Marion by pupils of public and parochial schools through the cooperation of Supt. E. E. Holt of city schools and Rev. Father William J. Spickerman of St. Mary Catholic church.

Since there have been several calls from persons who were late putting the clothing out, the Civilian Defense office on South Main street will be open from 1 to 4:30 p. m. Monday afternoon to collect clothing, and families from both city and county may take clothing there.

The Anthony Laundry, Peerless and Alco Cleaning companies assisted in collection and cleaning of garments.

EARLY ACTION IN SERVICE VOTE SEEN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — Propelled by a bipartisan senate coalition, congress appeared headed today toward early passage of legislation retaining in the states alone the right to say which among the nation's 10,000,000 uniformed men and women are qualified to vote in next year's presidential election.

A measure calling on the states to facilitate absentee voting among service personnel at home and abroad went to the house with the voice vote approval yesterday of the senate, and proponents claimed sufficient votes within the house elections committee to report it intact to the floor.

Assailed by Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky as a "pious ladies aid society resolution" under which few, if any soldiers and sailors would vote next year, the measure was forced through the senate by a coalition of southern Democrats and Republicans.

It was a substitute for a bill offered by Senators Lucas (D-Ill) and Green (D-RI) which would have waived all state voting requirements except those of age and residence in setting up a bipartisan war ballot commission to supervise absentee voting.

1944 FARM INCOME TO TOP RECORD 1943 MARK

St. Louis Farm Equipment Executive Predicts New High.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 4—Paul M. Mulliken of St. Louis, executive secretary of the National Retail Farm Equipment associaton, told the Ohio food producing equipment conference here last night, 1943 farm income—the highest in history—would likely be surpassed next year.

He asserted the only immediate concern of farmers is that huge surpluses, which the government now is piling up for the allied armies, may be thrust on the market at reduced prices after the war.

He said new farm machinery, now on trial, likely would revolutionize the industry and bring about new agricultural system of cultivation.

New officers of the organization for the coming year included C. C. Craig of Hume, president, and Howard Myers of Mansfield, vice president.

RAF Feints at Berlin, Then Blasts Leipzig Rail Center

1,500 Tons of Bombs Poured on City 90 Miles South of German Capital: 23 Planes Lost.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 4—The RAF bomber command, tricking the Germans with a well-timed shift of targets, sent Mosquitos roaring over scorched Berlin and heavy bombers feinting at the Nazi capital last night, then struck with devastating effect at the great German trading and railway center of Leipzig where 1,500 long tons of explosives were unloaded.

The deception drew off the great majority of German night fighters which rose once more to give battle when a pair of block-busting squadrons headed for the expiring capital.

Then just as the main attack seemed about to open over Berlin, the major armadas streaked southward 90 miles and hit Leipzig, from where the Nazis have been trying to succor the capital with food and supplies.

23 Bombers Lost

The air ministry, which first announced that 24 bombers were missing from the night attack later corrected the figure to 23, as compared with the previous night's losses of 41 in the 1,500-ton attack on Berlin.

Battered Berlin did not escape new destruction.

As the heavy bombers made their abrupt turn toward the south, swift two-engined Mosquitos darted in to strike selected targets and keep the weary capital under siege for the second successive night following five heavy blows.

The heavy bombers dumped high explosives and incendiaries on Leipzig's industry and on her freight yards already strained to the limit to accommodate Russian-bound war traffic.

First reports from crews returning from the 1,000-mile round trip told of a concentrated and effective bombing of the city of more than 700,000 population.

Large Rail Terminal

Leipzig is one of the world's largest railway terminals. More than 20 firms there are engaged in the manufacture of aircraft components and it also is the home of assembly plants for JU-88s and ME-109s.

Reports reaching Spain said Leipzig was one of the several big cities in the Berlin area now being drawn on heavily to support the capital's bomb-battered millions.

The raid was the eighth of the war on Leipzig.

Other RAF planes rounded out the night's assaults by sowing mines in enemy shipping lanes, and fighters lashed out at enemy airfields over a wide area.

Reports from Berlin through neutral countries said three of Berlin's biggest bakeries had been destroyed in Thursday night's assault and that bread now was coming in from Leipzig and Magdeburg.

The badly-affected transportation system was said to have been further crippled.

In each of four massive attacks on Germany in November, three of them aimed chiefly at Berlin, British bomber forces averaging 700 planes dropped more than 2,000 long tons of bombs, it was estimated.

REDS PUSH ON NAZI RAIL HUB

Closing In on Zhlobin, Important German Point: Repel Counterattacks.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 4 — Red army troops, sloshing forward through knee-deep snow and mud, were closing in from two directions today on Zhlobin, important German-held rail and communications hub at the juncture of the Gomel-Minsk and Leningrad-Odessa railways in White Russia.

Far to the south other Soviet forces plunged deeper into German lines west of their Dnieper river bridgehead below Kremenchug, and hurled back fierce counterattacks aimed at Soviet positions in the Cherkasy area, a Russian communique said.

The Soviet bulletin did not mention developments in the Kiev bulge, where the Germans sit astride newly-recaptured Zhitomir and Korosten on the Leningrad-Odessa line, but Berlin broadcasts said there had been no clash of major importance there for the past 30 hours.

Hit Nazi Rail Lines

Gen. Constantine Rokossovsky's troops were reported raising havoc with the German railway network northwest of Gomel, and the army communique said more than 100 populated places were overrun in Friday's advance. Key-points taken in this two-pronged drive, aimed at enveloping Zhlobin, were Sverjen and Dovsk to the north and Soltanovka and Staraya Rudnya to the southwest.

Dovsk is a junction on the Gomel-Mogilev and Rogachev-Roslavl railways, 18 miles northeast of Rogachev. Sverjen lies seven miles further west. The Nazis lost heavily, the Soviet bulletin said. More than 10,000 Soviet civilians earmarked for slave labor inside Germany were liberated, the communique added.

15-Mile Advance

In the Dnieper bend, Soviet troops were said to have blasted their way westward 15 miles from their Kremenchug bridgehead. The movement apparently was designed to relieve the pressure on Soviet units in the Cherkasy salient, 70 miles to the north. Here numerous Nazi counter-thrusts were repulsed, according to the Soviet communique.

NEW HIGH REACHED IN PLANE, SHIP OUTPUT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—More bad news for the axis came from the war production board today. New records were set in November in the production of warships and planes last month, WPB said and the rate of output still is increasing. By the end of this month about 85,800 planes, 1943 model, will have rolled off the production lines and the goal for 1944 will be boosted to about 115,000.

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said this week-end would see completion of the 1943 program of 260 destroyer-escort vessels. Knox said "about a dozen" new aircraft carriers were among the record quarter-million tons of naval craft turned out in November.

—Fewer Officers Needed—

From sources close to the house military committee came word the army intends to dismiss about 25,000 officers whose services it no longer needs. Another 25,000 are to be shifted from administrative to operational jobs.

Separate Foreign Policies Urged in 1944 by Landon

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 4—Alf M. Landon today derided informal proposals that both major parties adopt similar foreign policy planks in their 1944 platforms, declaring "candidate Roosevelt doesn't stand still long enough" for the Democratic policy to be defined.

The 1936 Republican presidential nominee, speaking to the party's "freshmen" members of the U. S. senate, called for:

1—A vigorous expression of Republican aims for the postwar world to combat what he called "the danger of a drift toward one party in our country."

2—Constant prodding by the G. O. P. members of congress into the administration's conduct of government affairs—congressional "checking up" of all legislation and bureaus operating under it to "protect the rights of the people."

Landon referred to the Moscow parley as "only a mere beginning," and said he personally was apprehensive that the pact settled more than military arrangements.

"I can find no evidence that the Russians have yielded one inch in regard to their well-known territorial aspirations or political ambitions in Europe," he said.

Landon voiced a belief the Roosevelt administration had determined to "angle the G. O. P. into accepting a part" of the responsibility for its peace plans "so that when the showdown comes the Republican leadership might be held partially accountable by the electorate."

Advance in New Guinea in Move for Invasion of New Britain.

By The Associated Press

Japanese possession of the entire Huon peninsula in northeastern New Guinea was threatened today by the advance of two Australian units battling to clear that vision of New Britain island strategic sector for a possible in-

Veteran "digger" troops have captured nearly half of the peninsula coast and are now pushing inland. Only the narrow Dampier strait stands between Huon and the lower extremity of New Britain, Japan's major base in the southwest Pacific.

One Australian force is closing in on Wareo, 11 miles northwest of coastal Finschhafen and the juncture of jungle trails forming the line of Japanese retreat.

Allied bombers continued to smash at Japanese bases on the tip of New Britain where invasion landings might be made in the drive to neutralize, if not directly assault, the island's battered stronghold of Rabaul.

Aside from China, there was a lull in ground action elsewhere in the Pacific theater, but allied fliers gave the enemy no respite in the Solomons.

Possibility the costly fight for Tarawa in the Gilbert islands might lead to entirely new methods of assault on Japanese island defenses was suggested in Washington. Delayed dispatches told of development of a strong American [illegible] on the captured mid-Pacific atoll.

For the tenth successive day allied bombers encountered no enemy interception over Bougainville. The sizable Japanese holdings in the northern Solomons [illegible] which the enemy had managed to repair were rendered useless again. Anti-aircraft fire downed one divebomber.

DOUBLE ACCIDENT KILLS 3, HURTS 25

By The Associated Press

MASSILLON, O., Dec. 4—The Pennsylvania railroad's Chicago to New York passenger train, stopping in a dense fog after it smashed an automobile and killed three persons, was rammed by another passenger train near here last night, telescoping coaches and injuring 25 persons.

The victims, all occupants of the automobile, were identified tentatively by the state highway patrol as Franklin L. Ralston, 52, of near Kilbuck, O., his wife, 50, and Miss Jean E. Fibber, 16, of Portage Lakes, O.

Twenty-four of the injured were passengers, mostly cut and bruised when hurled from seats by the impact of the train collision. Two were brought to Massillon City hospital. 20 were treated at the scene and two when they arrived in Pittsburgh. The only trainman hurt was R. L. Smith of Wellsville, O., fireman on the first passenger.

Patrol Corporal H. C. Glover said the first section of Pennsylvania's crack Chicago to New York train, struck Ralston's automobile at a crossing five miles northwest of here at 10:30 p. m. The train came to a stop "three-fourths of a mile down the track," he said, and "the engineer, John De Venny, 65, of Bellevue, Pa., sent his flagman

Hallie Houck Promoted To Sergeant in Marines

Hallie E. Houck, former member of The Marion Star editorial staff, now in service with the Marine Corps Women's Reserve, has been promoted to sergeant, Marine Corps Headquarters has announced. She is stationed in the Marine Corps public relations division at headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Sgt. Houck enlisted for service in February this year. Following training with the first class of women Marines, she was in specialist school at the University of Indiana for three months and went to Washington from the Marine Air Station at Cherry Point, N. C.

Sergeant Houck is the daughter of H. R. Houck of Dayton, O.

EMPLOYMENT DROPS IN 3-STATE AREA

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4—The regional war labor board today reported a wave of "cutback jitters," reflecting undue optimism over an early allied victory, in management and labor circles in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky following sporadic layoffs by some industries with reduced war contracts.

The war agency's labor-management committee said it noted a widespread attitude that peak production has been reached. Regional WMC Director Robert C. Goodwin declared the committee's report was based on observations in the tri-state area after numerous employment layoffs occurred in northern Ohio alloy steel plants.

"There is little cause for cutback jitters spreading through labor and management circles in the region," the regional WMC said, adding that no overall layoff in employes in northern Ohio steel centers was in sight. The committee reported that serious production bottlenecks, based on manpower shortages, still exist on many lines of Army and Navy material output.

Report Turks To Meet Roosevelt, Churchill

GREAT AIR AND LAND BLOW AT NAZIS MAPPED

Red Radio Says Germans Are Given Choice of Surrender or Bloody Defeat.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 4—The Moscow radio announced today the long-awaited Stalin-Roosevelt-Churchill conference has been concluded at Teheran [illegible] and in London it was expected that [illegible] decisions applying both to the battlefield and to political questions would be made public very soon.

The declaration which will surely present faltering Germany the choice of unconditional surrender or certain bloody defeat by history's greatest land and air offensive awaited only completion of arrangements for its simultaneous release at all three capitals.

British and American authorities were understood to be in conference on the arrangements.

Moscow's broadcast that the conference actually has been held was the opening gun of what is expected to be the biggest barrage yet aimed by the allies at the apprehensive axis in a nerve war offensive.

As a result of the Thursday night broadcast by U. S. Senator Tom Connally and the subsequent Moscow announcement that the conference actually had been held, decisions doubtless will be published earlier than originally intended.

Delay Made Unnecessary

Considerations for the safety of Premier-Marshal Joseph Stalin, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, the main reason for delaying an announcement, were obviated, by the Moscow radio statement. It said the heads of the three great allied powers met "a few days ago."

The British news service Reuters said in a Moscow dispatch a British embassy spokesman announced that the British and American ambassadors to the Soviet Union, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr and W. Averell Harriman, left Moscow a fortnight ago to attend the Stalin-Roosevelt-Churchill conference. It said they were accompanied by the heads of their military missions.

Harriman and Sir Archibald attended the earlier Cairo conferences of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and it was speculated then that they made the trip to the middle east primarily to sit in on a conference with Stalin.

The announcement, made in an official Soviet news agency broadcast said.

"A few days ago in Teheran, a conference took place between the leaders of the three allied powers, President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin. Diplomatic and military representatives took part in the conference.

War Questions Discussed

"At the conference, questions on the conduct of the war against Germany were discussed as well as a number of political questions.

"Corresponding decisions were adopted which will be made public later."

The announcer introduced the statement thus: "I am about to broadcast a statement to be inserted in every newspaper." He read it at dictation speed twice, and then once at ordinary speed for checking purposes.

The Moscow "scoop" of the event caught both official London and Washington flatfooted. Neither had any official news for immediate release.

The Soviet Monitor said full details of the conference might be

Explosive Results Expected from 'Big Three' Conference

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—Military action to shorten the war by weeks or months, and probably a dramatic ultimatum to the German people to throw off fascism and surrender, or face destruction, are the explosive results expected from the conference of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin.

This was Washington's reaction to the Moscow radio announcement that the "Big Three" had completed their extraordinary sessions at Teheran and that a statement would be issued later, perhaps today, outlining military and political decisions reached.

Probably no announcement of this war has been awaited with such worldwide interest.

Russian Offensive

A hint that even greater offensives on the Russian front may be in store came from Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee, who said in a radio address Thursday night that as a result of the Big Three meeting "the armies of Russia will be strengthened and her campaign will be buttressed and fortified."

Beyond a doubt one of the major topics of discussion was the projected Anglo-American invasion of western Europe, which the Russians have long been urging.

Those most familiar with the Russian argument believe Stalin and his military advisers stressed the necessity of invasion as the only means of forcing victory at a reasonably early date.

The Anglo-American position has been, and probably was at Teheran, that any attempt to open a second front would be suicidal

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Now it's the Bible strip by which the religious press hopes to parallel the appeal of the comic strips.

W. T. Person, a young school teacher and author from Mount Pleasant, Miss., and Kreigh Collins, 35, portrait painter, muralist of Ada, Mich., have combined talent and a wide amount of research to launch the new venture.

The feature released by The Methodist Publishing house here is carried in two of its weekly story papers for boys and girls and in 15 other denomination publications.

The first episodes deal with the life of Paul the Apostle; later episodes are planned on Joseph of the Old Testament and the life of Christ.

Two Dangerous Evils

A Sermonette

By ERNEST A. FINKENBINER

Pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church

* * *

My people have committed two evils: they have f[illegible] Me, the Fountain of Living Waters, and hewed them out [illegible] broken cisterns, that can hold no water. (Jeremiah 2:13)

* * *

OUR study passage is taken from the record of one who ministered to Judah both before and in the early years of their captivity. He preached to a people suffering the sting of Jehovah's wrath because (2 Chr. 36:15-16)

The Lord God of their fathers sent to them by His messengers, rising up betimes, and sending; because He had compassion on His people, and on His dwelling place: But they Mocked the Messengers of God, and despised His words, and misused His prophets, until the wrath of the Lord rose against His people til there was no remedy.

Jehovah will exact a penalty for pretentious religion devoid of Divine power (2 Tim. 3:5). By way of explanation, we remind you that Cain would bring to God the kind of a sacrifice he considered good, rather than submit to the sacrificial demands of the One to whom He offered. The first Gentile ruler was informed by fearless, faithful Daniel (Dan. 4:17)

The most High God ruleth in the Kingdom of men and giveth it to whomsoever He will, and setteth up over it the basest of men.

Pity the exponent of liberal theology who dares to raise his voice in condemnation of Germanic practices, for the modernist is a disciple of the system born in Germany and which is far more dangerous to humanity than all of Hitler's hordes. Modern "churchianity" has begotten a creedal system quite barren of New Testament Christianity and in absolute defiance of the Lord's warning recorded in (Mark 7:13)

You make the Word of God of none effect through your tradition, which we have delivered: and many such like things do ye.

The condition presented in our study passage is by no means limited to Jeremiah's day for we hear Paul speaking under inspiration of a "last days" period (2 Tim. 4:3-4)

When they will not endure sound doctrine: but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears, and they shall turn away their ears from the truth and be turned unto fables.

We need not err concerning the true fountain of waters since it is written (John 4:14)

Jesus said, whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life.

Jeremiah's inspired record is as fresh today as it was in those historic times B. C. Inasmuch as men have deliberately turned away from the Divinely established fountain of Holy Ghost regeneration to dig the broken cisterns of modernistic pretense, liberalistic formality and stagnant cultism. The churches of this and other lands are dark on Sunday evening because thirsty souls find no thirst-quenching water of life. God spoke thru Amos to warn humanity there would be a famine for hearing the Words of the Lord (Amos 8:11-13), and the youth problem of [illegible] perfectly understand[illegible] light of (Amos 8:13

Rev. Ahrens' Sermon To Open Advent Season

The first in a series of sermons for the Advent season will be given by Rev. H. C. Ahrens of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church in the service tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. His subject will be "Voices from the Past." A meeting of the Senior choir will be held at the parsonage at 7 p. m. Teachers and officers of the Sunday school will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Sunday school room at the church. Miss Mary Kull will be hostess to the Harmonie Guild in her home at 181½ West Center street Wednesday at 2 p. m. A Christmas exchange will be held. The Men's Bible class will meet in the home of Arlie Porter at 431 South Vine street Thursday at 7:30 p. m. for a Christmas exchange.

Church To Dedicate Parsonage Sunday

Dedication of the new parsonage of Second Pilgrim Holiness church will be featured in the service tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. Rev. L. W. Sturk, district superintendent, will preach. The house, located at Mark and Patterson street, was purchased this fall. The pastor, Rev. Albert Hood, and family are making their home there. Arden Rizor will be in charge of the Young People's service at 7 p. m. and Rev. Hood will preach at 7:45. Plans are being made for a Christmas program to be given Dec. 22.

Church To Mark World Parish Day

DR. CREED W. GAWTHROP

Dr. Creed W. Gawthrop, above, representative of the Northern Baptist convention, will be World Parish day speaker in a special observance in Fite Memorial Baptist church here Monday.

World Parish days are brought to the churches of the Convention for the purpose of presenting the denominational program to local congregations in place of the convention which will not be held because of transportation problems.

The program will open at 3:30 p. m. with a worship period. A recorded message from the president of the convention, Dr. Joseph C. Robbins, will be presented and Dr. Gawthrop will speak. Formerly executive secretary of the Northern California and Nevada-Sierra Baptist convention, he was appointed recently to the staff of the Council on Finance and Promotion of the Northern Baptist convention as western regional director.

A pot-luck family fellowship supper will be served at 6 p. m. and an open discussion on various denominational interests will be held prior to a "poll of opinion" at that time.

The evening session will open at 7:30 with instrumental music. Dr. Gawthrop will speak again. Plans are being made for local church history and other church exhibits to be on display.

Final Plans Made for Jubilee Services

Final arrangements are being made by a committee of ministers and laymen for the Victory Jubilee services in Calvary Evangelical church Dec. 14-20. A special feature will be the singing each night at 7:30 by the world-famous Cleveland Colored Quintet, under the direction of Mr. Lacey. This quintet has made several trips abroad, appearing before the king and queen of England, and singing to packed auditoriums in some of the largest churches in this country.

Rev. Fred T. Fuge of Fostoria, evangelist, will be the special speaker. Rev. Fuge is an author and world traveler, having spent several years on the mission field in Africa.

These meetings are interdenominational in character, with churches of different denominations cooperating.

Kevin and Greg Axe

When We Grow Up . .

"Kevin and I often hear Daddy and Mamma talking and wondering what we boys will be when we get to be big like Daddy.

I guess Kevin is too little, yet, to know what he wants to be, but I think I know pretty well now.

You see my Grandpa and Daddy are in the Funeral and Ambulance Service Business, and I think it would be fine if I could grow up and be like them.

Grandpa and Daddy are working hard these days, so I just can't wait 'til I'm big enough to help them. I'm hoping, too, Kevin will decide to add his name, too, to that of"

DO YOU WANT AN ESSENTIAL OCCUPATION WITH A POST-WAR FUTURE?

We need a number of men for permanent positions as "mechanical tabulating equipment mechanics"—officially defined by Selective Service headquarters as an essential occupation.

WE are a large, well established manufacturer of office machines and equipment. Our entire production is going to war manufacturers and government bureaus. We urgently need men who are mechanically minded not necessarily with mechanical experience to keep these essential office machines operating at top speed in war plants and government offices. We teach you everything you need to know about the machines, and we pay you a salary while you are learning. The positions are permanent, with excellent opportunities for advancement.

YOU are a man with a knack for mechanical work, even though you may not be using that knack at present. You are a high school graduate and U. S. citizen. The armed forces have passed you by, and will continue to do so. You are not doing war work now. You are ambitious, loyal, a good worker, eager to get ahead.

YOU AND WE should get together. Write us a brief confidential letter, telling us about yourself. Give us also your age and phone number. Write today to without fully adequate preparation.

The aerial onslaught against Berlin already has aroused speculation that direct preparation for invasion may be underway.

When the time to drive across the channel actually is at hand, this kind of rear-area softening up must be followed by concentrated aerial bombardment of the potential invasion coasts.

Form Joint Staff

One phase of the second front preparation, the formation of a joint British-American staff to direct it, is in progress and many informed persons here expect that General George C. Marshall, reportedly chosen to head the staff as allied global commander, will go directly from the Middle East conferences to England to begin his momentous tasks.

Expectation that the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin statement will be, at least in effect, directed to the German people grows out of the fact the Germans can no longer escape facing the military realities of their position.

Behind the facts of present allied military successes is the intensification of suffering that winter brings and the fact that German morale must be at its lowest toward the winter's end.

The promised attack across the channel does not, in the view of responsible persons here, rule out possibility of a strike into the Balkans and that line of action is believed to have been taken up by the three leaders.

Q. Will it be injurious to madonna lily bulbs to loosen the soil and give them a thin application of pulverized sheep manure? They are packed quite tight in the ground.—Mrs. A.M.S., New Washington, O.

A. It will do no harm to fertilize your madonna lilies either with sheep manure or a complete commercial fertilizer, provided you do not disturb the bulbs themselves. Sprinkle the fertilizer on top of the ground and either let it work in naturally or cultivate it in to a depth of an inch or so.

LEARN LOCATION OF WATER STOP VALVES

Essential for Action in Case of Leak.

Lesson No. 1 in "What To Do Until the Plumber Comes" is to shut off the water, if there's a leak.

This involves knowing the location of the main shut-off valve for the house water supply. This valve is usually found near the basement floor level at the meter close to the wall nearest the street. Everyone in the family should know where this valve is.

The valve should be turned off and on at least twice a year in order to check on its free operation. Valves which have corroded so that they stick should be replaced. Have your plumber take care of this at the first opportunity.

If the leak is near a fixture, it may not be necessary to shut off the entire water supply for the house. In every properly designed plumbing system there are auxiliary stops in the supply piping near the fixtures. In addition to valves in the branch lines, every fixture should be equipped with local controls. Some of the local controls for fixtures operate with handwheels and others necessitate the use of a screwdriver.

On controls with screwdriver adjustments, it is important to use a properly proportioned screwdriver in order to avoid damage to the screw slot.

Knowing how to shut off the house water supply is particularly important today under wartime conditions when some range boilers and pipe, which in normal times would be replaced, are being kept in service to conserve metal.

Proper Method of Firing Furnace Helps Conserve Coal During Winter Months

The general public is becoming increasingly aware of the necessity for saving coal during the war. Inquiries on how to reduce the coal consumption are received daily. Most consumers report that they are using too much coal but thus far have found no way to remedy this.

Mrs. J. D. of Cincinnati, O. has a typical problem. She says:

"I am heating a five-room frame house; it has been covered with siding. Last winter I used nine tons of coal which seems to be more than necessary. Can you suggest ways of saving fuel?"

It should be possible to heat a five-room house, especially one covered with siding, with six tons of coal during the heating season. If more than this is necessary, the home owner is either overheating his house a considerable portion of the time, or there are excessional heat losses.

One way to reduce coal consumption is to insulate the attic and weatherstrip the windows [illegible]. This should reduce the amount of coal used in the average home by at least 20 per cent.

If you are sure your home is well insulated and excessive heat loss is not resulting from that, then give your attention to the furnace. You should always leave several inches of ashes on the grates. This prevents the coal from burning too rapidly and overheating the house.

In firing the furnace, the alternate method of firing should be used. This is done by placing the coal in the firepot, sloping upwards from the front to the rear. Fresh coal should be added first at the front or low side of the fire, piling up the coal to the fire door level. When additional coal is needed, it should be placed at the rear of the firepot. After the fire is burning properly, reduce the draft by opening the check-draft damper on the smoke pipe and closing the draft damper on the ashpit door to about one-half inch.

The Fuel Engineering Division of Appalachian Coals, Incorporated, Transportation Building, Cincinnati, O., will be glad to give advice on any heating problem confronting you. Simply address a letter to Appalachian Coals, Incorporated, setting forth your trouble and it will receive a prompt reply. There is no charge for this service.

Or a letter to the same address will bring free a copy of a FIRING CHART which shows the alternate method of firing in detail briefly described above.

Building Quiz

Q.—I live in an upstairs apartment which is not entirely finished. Until the gas is put in I am temporarily using a kerosene stove to cook on. The floor is painted. Something went wrong with the valve in the tank and oil leaked out and went between the boards and made a large spot on the wall paper of the downstairs apartment. I'm afraid nothing can be done to remove it but if you know of anything or have any suggestions to remedy the situation I shall be very grateful. The man who fires the furnace is afraid it will cause a fire. It is not near a furnace pipe. The spot is about two feet in diameter. Do you think there is any danger? —Mrs. A. L. M., Marion.

A.—Because the plastering is soaked with kerosene, removal of the spot from the paper would be only a temporary remedy, for more would soak through and the spot would reappear. Also, it would be nearly impossible to remove the spot without ruining the paper. The only suggested remedy is to remove the paper, apply at least two coats of shellac or sizing and repaper. This should cure the situation, but the only positive remedy would be to remove the kerosene-soaked plastering and replaster the area. There is little fire danger in the spot. The combustible elements in the kerosene would evaporate quickly.

Q. What is the relative value of weatherstripping of doors and windows as against the hanging of storm windows and doors?

A. My answer is to have both, if possible. But if you can only manage one or the other, I should prefer the storm sash, with a definite budget plan for the weatherstripping later on. If you install weatherstripping, try to locate a contractor specializing in well-fitted metal weatherstripping. Storm-sash, installed snugly into the window frames, will reduce heat loss through glass, and if there are many windows in the house, this will effect a noticeable saving in fuel. Weatherstripping eliminates leakage of air through the spaces between the sash and frames, also door and frame. Loose-fitting sash and doors generally cause much wastage in fuel.

PAPER FILLER

When using wet newspaper to fill a large crack—as between bathtub and wall—soak the paper in a thin mixture of plaster of Paris. This will harden in a short time and form a good backstop for the finish of plaster or plastic.

Emergence of a Pacific Policy

THE declaration of Cairo, dealing with the means of bringing Japan to the point of unconditional surrender, creates a basis for a Pacific policy. Whether it will stand the test of time, or whether it will turn out to be one more expedient arrangement in a series that led to the present war with Japan and may lead eventually to another is in the lap of the gods and the good faith of statesmen.

In general outline, the emerging policy in the Pacific calls for the reduction of Japan, as an aggressor power, to a condition of inferiority. It is to be stripped of the islands which it has seized (some of them by approval of the governments now affected) and forced to abandon its conquests on the mainland, a matter of the utmost importance to Russia as well as China.

Thus it becomes plain that the declaration of Cairo was as much in Russia's Asiatic interest as in the interests of the United States, Great Britain and China. One needs only the map of Asia to reveal that with Manchuria and Korea in hostile hands, Japan's crowded islands would be covered completely by land-based air power. Its naval power would be blanketed by the presence of watchful forces from Attu to the Philippines. The figurative effect would be to force Japan back into the isolation it was forced out of 90 years ago when Commodore Perry "persuaded" its barbaric natives to enter into trade with the outside world. It was that incentive to do business with the Japanese which placed in their still barbaric hands the power to wage war so they, in turn, could do business.

It was that materialistic folly, pursued narrowly up to the eve of Pearl Harbor, which made it possible for Japan to build the ships and planes and equip the armies which now must be destroyed at enormous expense of life and wealth. All the understandings and treaties and alliances which furthered Japan's development as an aggressor power, which it had become as early as the beginning of this century, must be cast aside.

Japan is to be placed on probation after it is brought under control. Theoretically, in that status it will be unable to manifest its national character as an aggressor. That was the theory about Germany when it was placed on probation after the last war. Perhaps it will work better in the case of Japan. Perhaps it will work better in the case of Germany this time. The declaration of Cairo offers a promise whose fulfillment will not be automatic; it will require unrelenting effort and a higher order of statesmanship and good faith than ever existed before.

Says Who and Why?

UNDER a civil service commission order issued Nov. 3, an applicant for a government job can't be questioned about any home-grown red antics, and if he volunteers any information by accident the investigator must let it go in one ear and out the other. The effect of the order on civil service investigators conducting loyalty investigations of applicants and employes already on the payroll is to make the federal bureaucracy safe for home-grown reds.

Naturally, the public is going to wonder who thought up this order and why. The native Communists of this country have been formally cut off from any connection with Soviet Russia, so it is not a matter of friendship for an ally in the war. Furthermore, even while the Comintern was in existence, Russia denied any connection with Communist agitators in this country. The Hatch act specifically bars them from federal payrolls, but of course if it is made impossible to find them the act means nothing. In another incident, still pending, certain employes barred from employment by act of congress have been retained and an issue made of their cases by President Roosevelt, himself, who called the law a "bill of attainder." This seems to mean that when investigation does turn up a suspect, he can't be disposed of. It's beginning to look as if red was becoming protective coloration for federal jobholders.

No Altruism

UNFORTUNATELY, the gold rush of do-gooders into the fruity fields of post-war planning has left a great many citizens with a more than sneaking suspicion that liberality with other people's money were in complete charge.

This is not, of course, true. The only post-war planning that will amount to anything but a net increase in the national deficit is being done by the hard heads who make the mare go. At the conclusion of a handout from National Association of Manufacturers, which nobody ever accused of being a gang of butterfly chasers, appears this declaration:

"We want world conditions which make it safe for this nation's manufacturing plants to devote themselves to making civilian goods instead of weapons of destruction. We can enjoy greater domestic prosperity if other parts of the world, or at least most of it, are able to trade with us and each other. In short, we are not international altruists when we say that sustained prosperity and well-being in the post-war United States will largely depend on the maintenance of worldwide peace and order, and the absence of economic stagnation in other important nations."

Today and Tomorrow

Food Subsidy Program Believed Worth All of the Cost and Bother Involved.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THOUGH I have been arguing in these columns that the power to employ food subsidies should for the present be retained, I concede that the burden of proof is always on those who favor the use of subsidies. Normally and in general they are [illegible] that they compel economic enterprise to support uneconomic [illegible].

To justify any subsidy the proponent must always show a clear, overriding public reason for departing from the basic principle of our economy, which is that goods should be bought and sold at the prices which are set in a free and honest market.

There are obvious examples, which every one would recognize, where subsidies are acceptable because the public reason is so overwhelming. The national defense is wholly subsidized. To a very large degree public education is subsidized. To a very considerable extent the promotion of public health is subsidized. So are parks, playgrounds and many kinds of public recreation. So are churches, scientific research facilities, public libraries, art galleries and symphony orchestras subsidized, whether directly out of the public treasury or indirectly by private contributions which are exempted from taxation.

Reason for Subsidy

The reason for subsidizing such activities is that, though they are necessary or highly desirable, they could not be maintained by ordinary commercial transactions.

The use of subsidies to stabilize food prices in wartime must be justified, if at all, on such broad ground of public interest. It may be, of course, that a particular subsidy is wrongly designed, is unnecessary, or is badly administered. If so, it should be re-examined. But the large question is whether subsidies are necessary in order to stabilize prices in wartime, and whether the stabilization of wartime prices is so desirable that the expenditure is justified.

That subsidies are necessary and that they can be effective has, I believe, been abundantly demonstrated by the experience of Great Britain, Canada, the United States and indeed of every country which has stabilized prices.

Of the 14 products which are recognized in the British food index, 11 products, representing 90 per cent in weight, are subsidized. Prices in the United Kingdom have remained remarkably stable; no one, I think, would argue that this could have been done if Parliament had outlawed food subsidies. Our own experience in the past few months since subsidies have been used is by no means unimpressive. The fact of the matter is that we have had a substantial success.

The question, then, is whether stabilizing the cost of essential foods is worth the money and the bother of subsidies and of the whole machinery, inevitably complicated and no doubt too complicated, of price control. If, as is the case, the alternative is to set in motion a spiral of general wage and general price increases, can anyone doubt that the subsidies and the bother of price control are the lesser of the two evils?

Worth a Lot

Surely it is worth a lot of money and a lot of bother to the nation not to have to take our minds off the war in order to deal with countless wage disputes, to deal with the grievances of government employes, pensioners, small business men who would be caught in the spiral of rising prices, to face, as we should have to, a continual recalculation of costs on war contracts and of estimated government expenditures.

There are many, I realize, who are troubled by the idea that money spent on subsidies can help to control the effects of the inflation which results from enormous government expenditures. They are forgetting that we are in the abnormal situation where the government itself is a principal consumer.

If we were not in this abnormal situation, then obviously a government subsidy to hold prices would be inflationary in that it increased the popular purchasing power to the amount of the subsidy. The critics would then be quite right. But in our present situation the government itself is not only a great consumer, but it has an unlimited supply of purchasing power.

Therefore, the more the government has to pay for what it buys, the more inflationary money it will issue to get what it needs; the less it has to pay, because prices are kept down, the less inflationary money it has to put into circulation.

We all ask ourselves, naturally, whether these so-called consumer subsidies, once established, can ever be discontinued. My view is that of all types of subsidy, they would be the easiest to discontinue when the war is over. The reason is that when civilian production is fully underway again, the volume of it will be so great that we shall have a buyer's and not, as we have today, a seller's market. If a buyer's market we shall have no pressure to protect the consumer because prices will be falling.

Army Faces New Problem

Demand for Chaplains Greatly Exceeds the Supply.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The Army is fretting over a new problem: The demand for religious ministration by the boys and girls in the armed forces is outstripping the supply of chaplains.

Brig. Gen. William R. Arnold, chief of chaplains, says it's recognized that as the tempo of war increases, soldiers' interest in spiritual matters also increases and that this was taken into consideration long ago in the chaplain recruiting program. What wasn't anticipated was (1) that the soldiers' interest in things spiritual would expand as rapidly as it has and (2) that there would be a lag in the recruitment of chaplains.

Only two denominations, the United Presbyterians and the Unitarians, have exceeded the procurement quotas the Army assigned to them. Four others are slightly ahead or just about even with the procurement schedules; three must hurry to be [illegible].

But there are seven denominations which are lagging.

The Army right now could use [illegible] additional chaplains, General Arnold says.

Since Pearl Harbor, 33 have given their lives in action in the Army alone. Although they are noncombatants and carry no weapons, the instances where chaplains accompany their charges right into the front line foxholes are so numerous as to be almost commonplace.

General Arnold says the shortage of chaplains is the Army's only religious bottle-neck. The Army already has built more than 1,200 cantonment type chapels, equipped for use by Protestants, Catholics and Jews. Even in the field, there is no dearth of hymn books, books of scripture, portable organs, etc.

In the last month for which figures were available, nearly 122,000 services were held, with an attendance total of 7,500,000. In addition, the chaplains reported more than 7,400,000 instances of personal contact, mostly private sessions with lads who have problems they wish to talk over. Not all these problems are strictly spiritual, of course, but they are of such importance in maintaining morale both at the front and at home that it becomes a major Army problem if there's shortage of chaplains.

Under a recently adopted policy, the Army is now giving certification of award to churches, schools and religious organizations who "lend-lease" their pastors or other officials for the duration. Any member of the ministry under 45 years of age is eligible for enlistment but only those who are physically fit to stand the gruelling conditions of battle are assigned to combat units. There are hundreds of others needed in this country and at advanced but not front-line bases.

The Chaplain Corps is the only one in any branch of the services which doesn't obtain its quotas from selective service. Members of the ministry are exempt from the draft.

Fortress Death Flight

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE—This is the story of a Flying Fortress that—mortally wounded on its 50th bombing mission—went off to die by itself.

Capt. S[illegible] Kem told the story in a letter from Africa to his father-in-law, William Whiteside, Seattle.

"In all her 50 missions," he wrote, "the B-17 never had an engine changed. However, on the last she was so badly shot up that Major ——, commanding officer of the field, had the crew bail out over the base.

"The pilot headed the ship for a vacant spot, and then he too, dove out. The old plane just wouldn't die that easily. It pulled up, leveled off and headed for a [illegible] nearby. Then it pulled up again, leveled off and buzzed a field close by and all the personnel scattered.

"The Fortress pulled up at a stall after leveling off, headed into the [illegible] where it finally went down."

No Place for Nazis

By The Associated Press

CAMP PHILLIPS, KAS.—Two soldiers of the 80th division volunteered to don Nazi uniforms and wander around camp to determine how far they might be able to go.

They were Pfc. Peter Opper of Ozark, Ark., and Pfc. Charles VonHelden [illegible].

They didn't get far. They were spotted by Sgt. William F. Norton and Sgt. C. J. Williford who, unarmed, chased after them. VonHelden was knocked down and Opper was struck on the head with a grease gun.

They were rescued and their captors commended.

Monkeys Keep Peace

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — The inhabitants of Monkey Island at Audubon Park zoo have a system for water-cooling hotheads which seems an advancement over most human theories on the subject.

Whenever a particular monkey begins spoiling for a fight, gouging and nipping at his fellows, some party gives him the hip, bowling him into the moat surrounding the island.

His buddies then form a circle around the rim of the island and take turns stepping on his head when he tries to climb out.

They don't allow him to rejoin them until he is too weary and water-logged to be cantankerous.

Dog in Doghouse

By The Associated Press

COFFEYVILLE, KAS. — Duke, the big good natured mascot of Coffeyville Army air field, is in the doghouse. He spoiled a record. During October not a man at the post had gone A.W.O.L., had been court martialed or had been sent to the guard house. Lt. Harold G. Beckley, prison officer, was feeling proud. Then on the last day Duke was brought in on a charge of killing a chicken.

World-Minded Education After the War

By MAX HALL
Associated Press Writer

JOLTED by catastrophe, the nation's colleges will be stronger after the war.

Not only will they be flooded with students, says Fred J. Kelly, chief of the higher education division of U. S. office of education, but they will reorganize and strengthen many of their courses of study.

He reports that college heads are re-examining materials formerly used in teaching history, literature and other subjects, in order to meet the needs of students with increased maturity and seriousness who are to become citizens of a new kind of world."

He predicts a rebirth of interest in history, literature, languages, economics and sociology, because "technologies must win the war, but humanities and social sciences must hold the peace.

Because of wartime emphasis on sciences and technologies, "we will have a fairly adequate supply of engineers and scientists after the war," Dr. Kelly believes.

"The deficit now," he believes, "is in the liberal arts. Failure to prevent this war has shown clearly the need for people prepared to handle technology in the interest of human welfare."

He sees an encouraging outlook immediately after the war for liberal art colleges, now passing through a difficult period, many of them maintaining their strength only by government contracts to train soldiers and sailors.

Dr. Kelly has been with the office of education for 12 years and was president of the University of Idaho before that. He draws the following general picture of post-war colleges:

They will share the increased interest in all education that invariably follows a war. They will be flooded with students. In most cases their faculty members on leave will return promptly, on the whole better qualified than before.

Students will have a more serious attitude. Servicemen, returning to complete their education, will be "men instead of boys," and colleges are prepared to treat them as such. Aside from the servicemen, students in general will be more mature, "college men and women."

There will be more attention to adult education. More than ever, it will be realized that "colleges aren't completing anybody's education, but only getting him interested in the world and preparing him to pursue his own education during the 25 years after leaving college."

DR. KELLY, surveying probabilities of post-war education in the colleges, forsees these developments:

There will be more emphasis on talking, less on reading, because the people of the world will have more communication through radio and airplane travel on a talking basis.

History will be studied on a worldwide scope. Heretofore, European and American history have been studied, at the expense of Asiatic and Latin American history.

Literature will be the study of the classics of all nations. There will be as much interest in the great writings of Asiatics, for instance, as in the immortal works of William Shakespeare.

Geography will become an important college subject, instead of being left behind when students leave the public school system. There will be special emphasis on economic geography, to reveal the need for bringing about a better world distribution of raw materials.

International problems will come within the field of sociology. "People are apprehensive about race relations, for example," explains Dr. Kelly. "This problem can be traced back through history, yet I don't know of many people studying much about it in college.

Patton Incident

We Will Give You Heavy Odds That Pershing Wouldn't Have Stood for Slapping His Men.

By DAMON RUNYON

I NOTE that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton [illegible] was quoted as remarking to the [illegible] he believed that they shot men like [illegible] ing alleged malingerers, in the other [illegible] suppose Patton was referring to World War I as that is the only other war he knows.

His statement was an exaggeration. I [illegible] believe any men were shot in that [illegible] anything less serious than capital offenses [illegible] probably no considerable number were [illegible] under any circumstances.

However, Gen. Patton's crack reflects the attitude of all old soldiers that discipline and hardship and everything else was tougher in their first war than the one in hand. Veterans of this war will be saying the same thing when the next war comes on. I think they really imagine army life was more strenuous in their day than in any other.

But since Gen. Patton has brought up the other war, I can tell him one thing I think would have been handled differently then than in this war and that is his own case. It is my opinion that had any officer smacked a private in World war I, he would have been busted by Old Man Pershing quicker than you [illegible] scat and that goes for Patton, even though he was Pershing's protege and friend.

PERSHING was a cold, hard disciplinarian with little sentiment in his make-up. But one thing he would not stand for [illegible] treatment of enlisted men by officers. Gen. Eisenhower has let Gen. Patton off on [illegible] down and apologies, saying he is too [illegible] to be spared. Pershing would have chased Gen. Patton out of his command had he been a combination of Napoleon and Grant. No man was so valuable to Pershing that he could abuse the soldiers.

I do not desire to see Gen. Patton further penalized. I am sure he is most contrite and will do everything possible to redeem his error. I have known of him since the punitive expedition 27 years ago come next grass [illegible] he was a young lieutenant on Pershing's [illegible] and I know he is a fine officer despite a flair for exhibitionism. I forgive that in a man of real ability.

But there is one phase of the case to which I must take mild exception. That is the attitude of some editorialists and some officials in Washington that we must not question the judgment of Gen. Eisenhower in a matter of this nature, that he knows best. If it were a matter of military strategy I would say that is quite right, but this is something that affects civilian morale, and Gen. Eisenhower is too remote from his people to understand the repercussions on civilians of the incident. Therefore, his judgment cannot be infallible.

CIVILIANS have a perfect right to discuss the incident and to wonder if it is true that any one officer is so valuable that a temperament prejudicial to the respect and confidence of the soldiers and the people can be overlooked.

They have a right to wonder if it is true that any officer is so important he cannot be replaced, in view of the fact that in other areas of this war we have officers who are demonstrating ability as strategists and leaders of men, equal to if not superior to anything shown by officers produced on the North African and European fronts.

I deem it an injustice to the men who led and are leading our troops to victory on [illegible] and the islands of the Pacific that they have not received the attention that has been showered on some of the officers commanding our soldiers elsewhere.

We have developed veritable geniuses of jungle warfare whose names are comparatively unknown, we have found masters of land and air fighters, great artillerists and fine directors of foot soldiery.

To say any one officer anywhere can't be replaced out of this reservoir of talent is to display either ignorance of army resources or prejudice for individuals.

Soldiers' Letters

By Truman Twill

No fooling, soldier, you should see how [illegible] letters from the girl you left behind [illegible] started on their way. You, too, sailor.

Take, for instance, this chick we [illegible] morning. Maybe married, maybe not, but [illegible] body's faithful correspondent. Every [illegible] when she sprints for the bus there's [illegible] velope with the patriotic decoration [illegible] in one fist.

A man would think a long time before [illegible] ried an envelope in his hand for everyone [illegible] see. He would put it out of sight [illegible] meant cramming it into a handbag [illegible] junk women carry. But the girls you [illegible] you have a different slant.

They will hold those letters practically [illegible] each other's noses to make darned sure the [illegible] girls know they have someone to [illegible] maybe to let the other ones know [illegible] forgetting to write, whichever [illegible] important.

And they don't mind if all the [illegible] of-the-Maine fathers and ambulant [illegible] ability cases aboard get a gander at [illegible] too. With a little hinting they will even [illegible] envelope around so a fellow passenger [illegible] the address, but they hold a thumb [illegible] return address. Cagey operators, [illegible] left behind.

When they get off the bus, they [illegible] nearest mail box, lay the letter [illegible] on the receiving tray, bang the lid [illegible] for Victory and march off to the [illegible] whatever.

We see the same fluffs dump [illegible] their way home, sometimes, stuff [illegible] on company time, but most of the [illegible] sives are run up in the evening [illegible] stretched out in her house coat [illegible] They probably have mentioned [illegible] like the thought of Sugar Plum [illegible] brighten up morale in a foxhole you [illegible]

There's one dapper young man [illegible] deposits a letter each morning, too [illegible] to be sure about him. It could be [illegible] mother. He might write to his sister [illegible] or he might be sending Dear-S[illegible] some editor on a 24-hour schedule [illegible]

Or it might be his daily letter [illegible] This is that kind of a war. Maybe [illegible] released some lady for active service [illegible] tell. He keeps his hands in his p[illegible] because dishwater makes them [illegible] We thought it might be interesting [illegible] something about that mail you [illegible] off to a good start. We do everything [illegible] up and cheer when she drops those [illegible] the mail box—every morning but [illegible] on Sunday we don't know. Maybe [illegible] write on Saturday night. Maybe she [illegible] listening to the radio, or improving [illegible] or something. If you ever find out [illegible]

Sinatra To Do Another Weekly Broadcast

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—Depending on whether his recent 1-A reclassification in the selective service will result in his going into the Army, Frank Sinatra expects to take on an additional broadcast and sponsor after the first of the year.

Tentative date for the new program is Jan. 5, putting the show on Wednesday nights and permitting him to continue his Hit Parade schedule on Saturday. Both broadcasts are CBS.

Sinatra does not expect to take his service physical until after New Year's day.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Dec. 4

For Sunday, Dec. 5

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE holds predictions of upsets, disagreements, ungracious or belligerent conduct, together with obstacles and impediments almost impossible to negotiate. There may be much resistance or antagonism from elders or superiors. Treat these with tact and amiability as they have power to be of substantial assistance.

Those whose birthday it is may have a difficult and disagreeable year, with the final outcome dependent upon individual restraint, good nature and tactful management of obstacles, disputes, and opposition, particularly from elders or superiors. These should be placated as they have power to confer real benefits and friendly cooperation. Be careful with all writings and documents lest misunderstanding cause trouble. Nervous or emotional impulses should be controlled, being at the root of all reverses and disagreements.

A child born on this day may be highstrung and temperamental, antagonizing its best interests. With due control there are opportunities for marked success.

* * *

For Monday, Dec. 6

Monday's astrological forecast promises a definite and dramatic swing into expanding channels for promotion, preferment and substantial cooperation from powerful sources, probably in connection with public, community or other collective groups. Dealings with large institutions may best be done by secret agreements or by tact or diplomacy rather than above-board tactics. Work for highest of goals with courage and determination, as the judgment is excellent and impulses and intuitions dependable. Dare to be original.

Those whose birthday it is should be at the threshold of a year of great progress and prosperity, with promotion, honors and solid support from those in power and authority. With courage, ingenuity, originality, determination and brilliant ideas and with discretion, diplomacy and tact, excellent results are foreseen. Undercover understandings, even worthy intrigues, are prolific and dependable. The bold, new, and ingenious, are bound to reach high spots of progress and approbation. It would be wise to safeguard the energies and funds, shunning all forms of extravagance.

A child born on this day may have splendid prospects for high achievements and possible renown, although original, independent and freethinking.

The bora, cold Dalmatian and Albanian wind, has been known to sweep a passenger train off the tracks in a mountain gorge.

Sailor Gals Join the Ranks of Tatoo Expert's Customers

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—Tattooing WAVES is "not a big business but it is money in the pocket, nevertheless," in the eyes of Jake Kasper, eminent tattooer [illegible] South State street.

Enthusiastically he said today the gal sailors have been coming in for personal ornamentation at the rate of one daily for the past two months—fee $1.50 but prices are reduced for anyone wearing a uniform—but observed glumly that requests of most clients were not original.

"In the past two months," Kasper said, "I have had about one girl daily in uniform wanting an anchor here or a flag there"—pointing to various parts of his anatomy—"all very routine stuff."

His interest brightened when he discussed some of his more artistic achievements. "Now there was the girl who was most original," he said, "and it should be pointed out she was not in the service of her country.

"She is a burlesque queen, so she says, and wished me to disguise the scar resulting from her appendicitis operation.

"Most girls who wish to hide such a scar request twining roses or similar flowers. But not this client. Because it is near the holiday season she asked that I cover this blemish with the likeness of a Christmas tree.

"That I did, complete with the ornaments."

Head of Sorority To Be Guest At Dinner in Marion

FRANCES R. HULL

An honor guest at a dinner to be held by Gamma Mu chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority, tonight at Hotel Harding will be Mrs. Frances R. Hull of Warsaw, Ind., president of the national sorority. Following the dinner Mrs. Hull will conduct an inspection of the chapter.

Mrs. Hull served two years as national eastern inspector, one year as national vice president and one term on the National Legislative committee. In addition to her sorority interests Mrs. Hull is active in the social life of her city, is a member of a literary club and the Order of the Eastern Star. She is an executive of the Little Crow Milling Co. at Warsaw.

Delta Theta Tau is the largest existing non-academic and philanthropic Greek letter organization, having 144 active chapters, 51 alumnae groups, 1,300 members-at-large and an active membership of more than 4,400.

The sorority has recently completed the ground work establishing the artificial limb department at the U. S. Naval hospital at Mare Island, Calif. The hospital has been designated by the surgeon general as the amputation center for the Pacific coast and the chief function of this special department will be to manufacture and fit artificial limbs. In addition to local war projects carried out by the individual chapters, the largest project of this war year was the foundation of this department with an expenditure of $3,200. Plans got under way early last spring after Lt. Com. D. D. Toffelmier and a committee composed of members of Delta Theta Tau from all sections of the country had worked out the details.

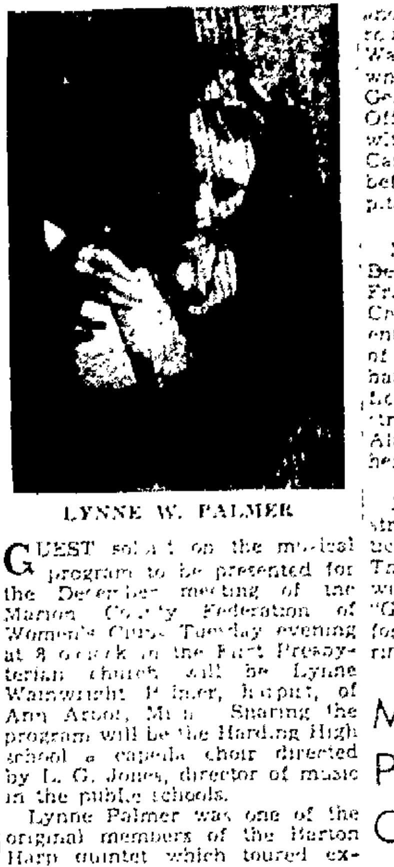
Harpist To Play On Program With High School Choir



LYNNE W. PALMER

GUEST soloist on the musical program to be presented for the December meeting of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church will be Lynne Wainwright Palmer, harpist, of Ann Arbor, Mich. Sharing the program will be the Harding High school a capella choir directed by L. G. Jones, director of music in the public schools.

Lynne Palmer was one of the original members of the Barton Harp quintet which toured extensively in the east, south and middle west and appeared in a short feature movie for RKO. Her interesting career began when she was appointed harp instructor at Louisiana State university at the age of sixteen. Then, for four years she had the advantage of study with Carlos Salzedo at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

Leopold Stokowski chose her as harpist for his All-American Youth orchestra which made a good will tour of South America and a coast-to-coast tour of the United States. She then was appointed first harpist with the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra and head of the harp department at Jordan conservatory. After a year as first harpist with the Philadelphia orchestra she resigned to become the wife of Dr. R. Alan Palmer, graduate of the University of Michigan Medical school. Since her marriage she has headed the harp department at the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Palmer will be heard in three groups of numbers, her first including "The Harmonious Blacksmith," Handel, "Gavotte" from Iphigenia in Aulis," Gluck and "Giga," Corelli. For her second group she has chosen "En Bateau," Debussy, "Prelude in C Major," Prokofieff and two French songs by Grandjany, "Et ron, ron, ron, petit patapon" and "Il bon petit roi d' Yvetot." "Deep River," Salzedo and "Concert Variations on Adeste Fideles," Salzedo, will conclude the harp program.

The choir will present two groups of numbers, the first "Lead Kindly Light," arranged by Purday, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," Hollbrook and "Thine Is the Greatness," Bortniansky-Aschenbrenner and the second two spirituals, "Climbin' Up the Mountain," Smith and "I Want to Be Ready," Cain, and "The Lord Bless You," Lutkin.

The program is one of the series of fall and winter meetings of the federation and is open to all clubwomen and club patronesses. Programs this year have been outstanding and there are still three worthwhile numbers to be presented during the remainder of the season. Lynne Lee Shew, educator, traveler and lecturer will be the speaker on Feb. 1, Irina Skariatina, formerly maid of honor to the Empress of Russia, on March 7 and the annual fine arts day program. Non-club members wishing patroness tickets may obtain them by contacting Mrs. R. A. Garvin, patroness chairman or any club member.

Special Holiday Events at Galion Set by Jr. C. of C.

Special to The Star

GALION, Dec. 4—Two major projects for the Yuletide season are on the calendar for the Galion Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Besides sponsoring a community program on the public square on the evening of Dec. 25, the Jaycees are planning to publish before Christmas an eight-page "newsy" dedicated to Galion servicemen and their families.

The Christmas program will feature music by a Community chorus of adult church and fraternal choirs under direction of F. A. W. Liddell, Galion school music supervisor.

Miss Jeanette Slocum will present the Junior and Senior High school choruses in a candlelight processional. The community chorus and high school band will appear on canopied bleachers. Rev. Philip E. Auer of Peace Lutheran church, will deliver the Christmas message, with invocation by Rev. R. R. Elliker of First Reformed church, and benediction by Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of First Methodist church.

On Dec. 24, the Jaycees have invited Galion boys and girls to a "kid Comedy" movie, admission to which will be the purchase of a ten cent war stamp.

The eight-page "newsy" paper will include pictures, addresses, letters and stories of local servicemen. Space will be available for individual Christmas greetings. Marvin Adams, superintendent of the Crawford County Children's home, is chairman.

OPA ORDER DELAYED

GALION, Dec. 4—It was announced here Wednesday that Val Grandstaff, proprietor of the Galion Square Market, has had an extension from OPA. His appeal to OPA to keep his store open until after the first of the year has been granted. Last Wednesday Grandstaff was ordered by the OPA at Toledo to close his store for a 20-day period beginning Dec. 1, for price ceiling violations. He then made an appeal to the Cleveland.

"Doomed To Die in a Few Months"
That was the verdict handed John F. Class as a climax to years of suffering from ARTHRITIS and SUGAR DIABETES. Aroused to desperation he went to nature for help. Nature used Sun, Air, Water, Soil, so must he. He developed crude equipment and with the aid of a chemist developed a formula. Two years later he was a well man.

FIRST AMERICAN ESCORT CARRIER to be lost is the U. S. S. Liscome Bay, torpedoed and sunk during the invasion of the Gilbert islands, the Navy department has announced. The Liscome Bay was the same type "baby flat top" as the U. S. S. Casablanca, a picture of which is shown above. The Liscome Bay was the only ship lost in the Gilbert operation, the Navy communique said.

TO CANVASS FARMS FOR DEPOT WORKERS

Officials Plan Campaign To Get Additional Employes.

The Marion Engineer Depot today looked to Marion county farms as a possible source of badly needed labor supply, hoping to obtain as workers a number of rural residents as soon as their farm activity will permit.

The United States Employment service, War Manpower commission and representatives of the Civil Service commission and the county farm agent's office will open a house-to-house recruiting campaign Monday in a 10-mile radius of the depot to seek a sizable number of workers.

Officials today voiced the hope that farmers, with their rush seasons past, will be able to spend several months at the depot to help speed the flow of urgently-needed supplies.

Already the Selective Service Boards of both Marion and Morrow counties have been contacted by U. S. Civil Service and Marion Engineer Depot representatives, so that the boards may understand thoroughly the procedure to be followed in this recruiting program. Registrants now deferred by reason of being necessary men in seasonal or farm occupations in support of the war effort, may be continued in a deferred classification during the off-season if they fulfill the following conditions:

1. If they remain in farm work at least eight months of the year.
2. If they become engaged during the off-season in some other job in support of the war effort.
3. If they return to the farm [illegible] working for four months.

No farmer is wanted who has unharvested crops or who has a dairy herd or feeding chores of sufficient size that accepting essential employment at the depot would cause him to neglect his responsibility to the food production program.

While an intensive farm to farm solicitation is planned, officials suggested that any farmer who is interested and wishes further information get in touch immediately with the Civil Service secretary located at the Depot or contact the Marion U. S. Employment Service Office.

DELAWARE CO. DEPUTY SHERIFF DIES SUDDENLY

Robert E. Milligan, Former Marion Telegrapher, Stricken.

DELAWARE, Dec. 4 — Robert E. Milligan, 47, deputy sheriff of Delaware county and a former Pennsylvania railroad telegrapher who at one time worked in Marion, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home in Delaware [illegible]day.

Born near Radnor, he formerly served on the Radnor board of education. He served overseas in the World war. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the Robinson-Brackney funeral home.

HIS CANDIDACY for the Republican presidential nomination has been announced by Representative Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin, Ill. He said [illegible] Dirksen, I am definitely serving as a confed[illegible] anybody."

COLLETT

when Collett would be arraigned. He said he would call a special grand jury session only "when I am ready," inferring he might delay such action until new evidence is uncovered.

Reiterating his contention it was "murder for profit," the prosecutor continued: "These murders were a deliberate attempt to wipe out every member of the Elmer McCoy family for personal gain."

The prosecutor's office previously noted that under Ohio law, when simultaneous death occur and there is no definite procedure of determining who first succumbed, all are presumed to have died at one time, and relatives of each inherit only property owned by each individual.

In this case, the prosecutor asserted, the Collett family would have profited most, since the bulk of the property was owned by Elmer McCoy, brother of Mrs. Collett.

In the event a will comes to light, however, it takes precedence over distribution of property on a relationship basis, the prosecutor said.

Late yesterday afternoon Collett still maintained he killed only McCoy, Icenhower said.

Accused Man Sees Son

Meeting his son, Thomas, for the first time since he was taken into custody, Collett was quoted by the sheriff as telling the young man:

"Tom, I killed Elmer, but didn't kill the women."

"I still can't believe you did it," his son replied.

Meanwhile, a Friday afternoon search of the Collett farm near Wilmington failed to disclose the death weapon.

Hill, Icenhower and two Toledo detectives who questioned Collett prior to his confession in Toledo Wednesday night—Capt. Arthur Eggert and Lt. George Eckerman—took Collett to his farm to search for the gun.

"When he saw the farm house he just quit," Hill said.

It was after the Toledo confession that Collett said to the sheriff—a long-time friend.

"Bill, I'll bet you a thousand dollars you'll never find that gun on my farm."

To Be Questioned

The Toledo officers are expected to resume their questioning of the slender well-to-do farmer today in an effort to break down his reserve.

Since his confession he has insisted that after killing McCoy he had a lapse of memory and recalled nothing further until he drove into his own farm, 30 miles away.

Both the sheriff and prosecutor have branded the slaying a one-man plot, and contended unlikely any other persons were involved.

Meantime it was announced in Columbus that James M. Linton, prominent Columbus attorney, had been retained to defend Collett along with the law firm of Smith and Kirk, of Wilmington.

Marion Guard Officers Will Attend School

Lt. Elmer E. Smith and Lt. Dale Price will represent Co. H, local state guard unit, at the officers' school to be held at Ft. Knox, Ky., from Dec. 5-10 inclusive.

The instruction course is organized and held by the Fifth Service Command, Capt. Carl Ebert said today. Officers of the Ohio guard will attend during the above period and will live in officers quarters at the base.

Regular school will be held Monday night at the Armory and the stag party will be held Tuesday night.

REBEKAH GROUP MEETS

Plans were made for a quarterly birthday dinner and Christmas exchange at the next meeting when Loyal Circle of Wayside Rose Rebekah lodge met at the home of Mrs Osie Henney on Windsor street yesterday. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs George Hagemann on Gurley avenue. Contest awards were won by Mrs. Lettie Mae Parker, Mrs. Mida Clark and Mrs. Grace Cyders. The hostess was assisted by Mrs Hagemann. The committee for the Christmas meeting is Mrs. Jennie Hagemann, Mrs. Ethel Everly, Mrs. Mary Williamson, Mrs. Clara Bolander and Mrs. Grace Cyders.

MRS. ROSIA JUDY OF FIES AVE. DIES

Funeral Services To Be Held Monday at 2 P. M.

Mrs Rosia Belle Judy, 62, widow of Jim Judy, died at 1:15 p. m. yesterday in her home at 141 Fies avenue, following an illness of one and one-half years. She was born Dec. 26, 1881 in West Virginia to Mr. and Mrs Robert Howard, natives of that state. Mr. Judy died Dec. 24, 1937 at Cleveland. Mrs. Judy came to Marion three years ago from Cleveland. She was a member of the Pentecostal Assembly church.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Monday at the Boyd & Uncapher funeral home on West Columbia street, with Elder Ralph Bass of Dayton officiating. Burial will be made in the Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the residence after 7:30 o'clock tonight, until 10 a. m. Monday and at the funeral home until the time for the service.

FBI LAUDS STEUBENVILLE POLICE FOR BOND SALES

Ohio Force Sells $380,425 in Third War Loan Drive.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—The federal bureau of investigation in its bi-monthly bulletin today extended congratulations to Chief Ross H. Cunningham and members of the Steubenville, O., police department for selling $380,425 of war bonds during the recent Third War Loan drive.

Cunningham, the bulletin related, suggested to his 36 officers and detectives that each shift be designated as a team with the sergeant of each shift acting as team captain. He offered a box of cartridges to the individual selling the most bonds and promised a dinner for the entire department if the men sold as much as $100,000 in bonds.

"The team headed by Sergeant Matthew Phillips was the winning team with total team sales of $310,975," the bulletin continued. "Highest individual honors went to Officer John Stafford who sold a total of $157,250.

End of War Due To Uncork New Civil Outbreaks Abroad

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

[illegible] cannot be [illegible] a [illegible] for [illegible].

[illegible] is to believe that [illegible] of the present war [illegible] he should be forced [illegible] the eyes.

The way things look now, when we've smashed Germany and dismembered the Japanese empire we shall just have started to climb the heights. We shall have knocked out military aggression (at least temporarily), but we shall have released violent political passions both in Europe and the Orient. That isn't a happy forecast, but we shouldn't refuse to examine possibilities.

Civil Wars Coming

It will be more than passing strange if Europe and Asia don't suffer an epidemic of civil wars. Indeed, these bitterest of all human conflicts already are under way.

Take the case of Yugoslavia, the most fiery of the Balkans. There the forces of General Drug Tito, a Yugoslav Communist leader, and the army under General Draja Mihailovitch, war minister in young King Peter's cabinet have been at bloody loggerheads. Without much doubt this argument will be carried to a finish as soon as the Germans have been thrown out of Yugoslavia.

In neighboring Greece there's a similar situation. There we have strife between the politico-military organization known as Elas, which is said to oppose the return of King George to the throne, and the Edes, a military outfit supporting the king. Political passions have run fiercely in Greece through the centuries, and there we have the makings of a harsh conflict.

Other Trouble Spots

The neighboring states of Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary all are seething politically. In each case the status of the throne is one of the issues. German repression is the only thing keeping the lid on.

Down in Syria, little Lebanon has declared its independence from France, and unless the French recognize this fully there will be more trouble.

Italy is a political volcano, with the throne rocking dangerously.

Almost anything can happen in France as soon as the Germans are knocked out. There, many of the underground army, which is waiting its opportunity to strike at the invading Nazis, are Communists. Whatever leadership they may follow, they certainly are opposed to any and all Frenchmen who have supported the Vichy regime.

German Enigma

The great political enigma of Europe is Germany. There is a Communist party of unknown strength at work in the reich, and one would expect the German Communists to make an effort to establish a Soviet the moment the Hitlerites surrender—maybe before that. When I was in Germany at the time of Munich, while Hitler was riding high and mighty, the gestapo boasted that it had exterminated the Communists, who were the fuehrer's pet hate. But every morning Communistic literature made its mysterious appearance in the mail boxes of business offices throughout Berlin, and I dare say elsewhere. The Communists merely had been driven underground.

Many problems will arise in the Orient when Japan has been dismembered and there is a completely new Asiatic setup. One of the greatest of these is the issue between the Chinese Communists and the government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Right now powerful Red armies are in the field alongside those of the generalissimo, fighting the common Japanese enemy under a political truce. There we have one of the world's most dangerous situations.

THREE AGOSTA BOYS INJURED IN CRASH

Car Hit by Train While Returning from Game.

[illegible]

[illegible] highway patrolmen reported three boys, all 17 years of age, riding in the car suffered injuries. [illegible] Hess of Agosta was taken to City hospital with severe head lacerations and bruises. [illegible] Tucker of Agosta and [illegible] Pinkerton were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

All three boys were members of the Agosta High school basketball team and were returning to their homes after playing at Pleasant Township High school last night.

The accident, occurring at 10:40 p. m., happened when the driver failed to see the train in time to stop. The car apparently skidded backwards into the train after Pinkerton had jammed on the brakes.

John Edwin McKeehen, 8, son of Mrs. Evelyn McKeehen of 736 East Center street, suffered a broken leg and possible skull fracture when the bicycle he was riding figured in a collision with a car driven by William G. Smiley, 35, of 571 East Center street yesterday at 6 p. m. Smiley told city police he failed to see the boy until after the collision when he heard the child scream. He carried the boy into a neighboring house and called the police. The child was taken to City hospital in the Edwin K. Smith ambulance and his condition was reported to be "slightly improved" today.

BIRTHS

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs Tollie Rinehart of near Marion in City hospital yesterday.

A son was born last night in City hospital to Mr. and Mrs Bernard Gray of near Richwood.

Mr and Mrs Robert Trippier of 543 Henry street are parents of a daughter born last night in City hospital.

CONFERENCE

announced between noon and 2 p. m. eastern war time today, basing his prediction on the customary routine of the Moscow radio when announcing future broadcasts.

Probable Results

It was believed these steps probably will stem from the conference:

1. A formal ultimatum to the German people to overthrow Hitler and his Nazis or take the brunt of the growing allied war power.

2. Bigger aerial blows on Germany, especially Berlin.

3. The promised second front, involving allied land operations on the greatest scale, synchronized with developments on the eastern front and in the Mediterranean.

Decisions on the diplomatic front might include:

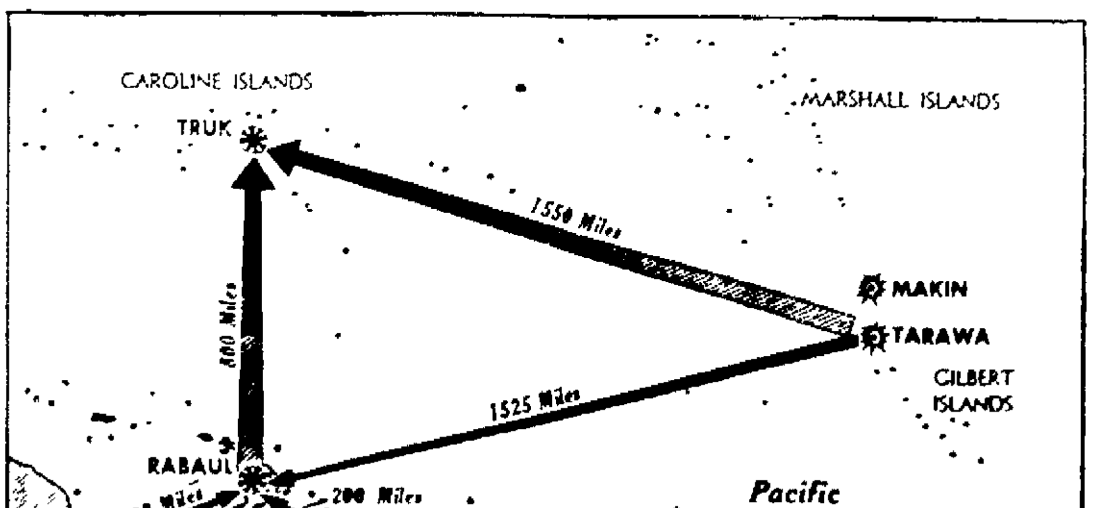
1. A bid to Axis satellites to abandon Berlin.

2. A plan for the occupation and policing of Germany.

It was believed the chief concern of the parley centered on military questions, since all three leaders are aware the allies still face a formidable enemy.

For President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin the conference, held close to Russia, was their first meeting, and the first time the marshal had left the Soviet Union since the revolution. Prime Minister Churchill met the Soviet leader last year when he flew to Moscow.

Premier Stalin's journey outside his own country was about a short step, compared to the distance traveled by the British and American chiefs of state. The distance from London, by way of Gibraltar and Cairo, is 4,550 miles, from Washington, by way of Natal, Dakar and Cairo, it is 10,500 miles.



THE ROADS TO TRUK. When American troops invaded the Gilbert Islands, they took another step toward an ultimate Pacific goal, capture of the Japanese naval stronghold of Truk, key to the enemy's entire operations in the south. Capture of the Gilberts and completion by MacArthur's forces of conquests in New Guinea and Bougainville, will place the Allies in position to open a double-pronged offensive against Truk.

C. A. HECKER OF NEAR MARION DIES

Funeral Services To Be Held Tuesday Afternoon.

Christopher A. Hecker, 76, of southwest of Marion died suddenly of a heart attack at 3:30 a. m. today at the Marion City hospital where last Monday he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He was a native of Marion county and lived on a farm eight miles southwest of here on the Bethlehem road. His parents were Rudolph and Marguerite Sulser Hecker, natives of Germany.

Mr Hecker was married to Clara D. Dietsch on June 7, 1900. She survives with a daughter, Mrs. James M. Ruckman of Pittsburgh, Pa., and three sons, Oliver of Detroit and Wilbert and Howard at home. He was a member of Epworth Methodist church and Bethlehem Grange.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Merle H. Hughes mortuary on Mt. Vernon avenue, with Dr. S. M. Ingmire, pastor of Epworth Methodist church officiating. Burial will be made in the Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 10 a. m. Sunday.

Ship Building Goal Already Passed in 1943

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 — America's "impossible" shipbuilding goal of 24,000,000 deadweight tons for 1942-43 is already over the top by a comfortable margin with a month to go to set new records.

Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery, vice-chairman of the U. S. Maritime Commission, said ships aggregating 25,284,387 deadweight tons had already been delivered to service, with close to 2,000,000 more tons due for delivery in December if the production rate of November (1,692,700) is maintained.

Mrs. Bessie Miller Of Mt. Gilead Stricken

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Dec. 4—Mrs. Bessie Mae Miller, 57, widow of Henry Miller, died of a heart ailment Friday at the home of her step-son, Charles Miller, former Morrow county sheriff. She had been ill since Sunday.

Surviving are the step-son, Mr. Miller, and a step-daughter, Mrs. Rosetta Sipe of Mt. Gilead, a foster son living in Texas, and a brother.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Craven funeral home and burial will be made in Rivercliff cemetery.

Thief Takes Bicycle, Exchanges for Newer One

Thefts of three bicycles were reported to city police in the last 24 hours. Harry Hoch of 259 Edwards street reported a boy's bicycle stolen from the rear of the residence in the last two weeks. Richard Tolin of 580 North State street reported a bicycle stolen from the rear of the Columbus Dispatch office. The third theft was reported by Ralph Kemmerly of 190 North Seffner avenue at 12:03 a. m. today. The Tolin bicycle was left at the Kemmerly residence where the thief apparently exchanged it for the newer bicycle.

Even with oxygen equipment, lack of oxygen begins to affect fliers above 37,500 feet.

ICKES URGES COAL ALLOCATION PLAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—Interior Secretary Ickes has told congress the country faces a fuel crisis unparalleled in its history as a result of the loss of 10,000,000 tons of coal production through miners' strikes.

He made this statement, it was learned today, in asking for a $3,550,000 special supplemental appropriation to carry out a plan of allocating available coal supplies this winter. The senate subcommittee on deficiency appropriations approved the amount.

District allocation offices would be set up in 65 cities under Ickes' plan.

In a letter to the subcommittee Ickes' office said the latest series of strikes, in late October and early November, cut coal production 10,000,000 tons on top of a production loss of 30,000,000 ton during earlier work stoppages growing out of the contract dispute between John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and operators.

"This presents a fuel crisis unparalleled in the history of the country," the letter said. "This further loss at this time of year necessitates an almost thorough-going allocation of coal. Allocation will involve such diversions of coal as may be necessary to meet the most critical needs.

"Critical needs can be met only by such diversions and allocations and the thorough understanding by consumers of the need for every possible conservation."

An RAF statement reported several German prisoners taken when the British smashed the lower Sangro river line had gone insane from the effects of the relentless allied bombings and most of the officers were shaken and exhausted from the ceaseless bombing which paced the attack.

"Terrific demoralization" of the enemy troops was brought about by the incessant air attacks, the statement said.

Harding Opens Basketball Season with 32 to 14 Victory Over Delaware

Presidents Show Scoring Punch in Defeating Visitors.

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

Linking stingy, virtually leakproof defense play with a sufficiently potent offense to form a fast, [illegible] effective basketball machine, Marion Harding's Presidents handed Delaware Willis a 32 to 14 setback in the locals' 1943-44 cage inaugural at Thomas A. Edison Junior high school last night.

Harding scoring was fairly evenly distributed in a game which was an abrupt reversal of 1942-43 Prexy contests, when President point-manufacturing was almost exclusively a one-man affair, Dick Mulvaine. Chuck Fazio, acting Harding captain for last night's opener, found the bucket for 10 points to top the individual scoring.

Rex Kilbourn, wingfooted senior forward, came through with nine markers to place second. Roger Moncur, substitute Delaware guard, led invader shooting with six points.

The Harding Vice Presidents took the measure of the visiting Delaware reserve squad by a 29 to 20 margin, in a preliminary which preceded the varsity engagement.

Employing most of the time a strict man-for-man defense, the locals boxed up Willis dribblers attempting to maneuver themselves or the ball into the forecourt for advantageous shooting positions. When the Delaware guards did penetrate the Harding defense and worked the ball up to forwards and centers in good bucketing range, the visitors usually were off on their basket attempts, as their 14 per cent average attests.

Harding shooting was nothing out of the ordinary but was accurate enough to pour through 14 goals and four free throws and click for a 30 per cent average. The Presidents tried 50 floor shots and made 14 while Willis shot 51 times and registered only on seven occasions.

Surprise Victory

The Harding victory can rightly be called a surprise in that the Prexies won with such apparent ease. Pre-game confabs among fans and Prexy Coaches Dewey Boyher and Joe Petrich had a decided air of uncertainty. Observers weren't sure just how good President material was compared with the equally baffling Delaware team. As it turned out, the Prexies started the game with five lettermen from last year's team and Delaware with only one emblem-bearer, Wilbur Bills smooth-working forward and captain. That edge in experience together with a telling Harding height advantage proved the undoing of the gallant Willis five.

The first quarter was confined to a large degree to experiments by both teams aimed at locating the most vulnerable points of the other's ball club. Obviously, the Presidents were better basketball scientists than the Delaware team for the count at the conclusion of the initial period was 7 to 4 in favor of Harding. After that, the Prexies played consistent, alert ball, scoring nine points in the second and third quarters and adding seven in the closing stanza, mostly with second-string replacements in the game. Delaware was good for only two points in the second period and chalked up four in each of the last two periods.

Rex Kilbourn opened scoring about a minute after the first quarter was under way by sending through a lay-in shot. Bob Jones, Delaware forward, countered with a lay-in basket of his own to square matters at 2-all. After Tom McLeery, Willis center, missed a free throw, Rex Montgomery, speedy visiting guard and a transfer from the Ostrander team, tallied on a dribble-in shot to give the invaders their only lead of the evening. Guard Elvin Beach downed a long shot from the middle of the floor to again tie proceedings into a knot. Chuck Fazio then put the Prexies in front with a successful charity toss, brought on by a foul committed by Main of Delaware. McCleery failed to make a foul try and Harding drove the length of the floor to tally again, this time on a one-hand lay-in shot from the side by Fazio. This ended first quarter scoring.

Fazio Opens Scoring

Fazio pried off the top of the second quarter with another two-pointer via the lay-in route. Fritz Guy, junior forward, swished through a dribble-in. Two foul attempts by Kilbourn were unsuccessful. Bill Williams, substitute senior guard, came off the bench pinch-hitting for Stew Young and promptly looped a mid-court high-arched toss through the net strings for his only points of the game. Delaware finally rang up a basket on a one-hand dribble-in by Captain Bills. Moncur failed to make a free toss and Harding retaliated with a shot by Fazio and a good free throw by Beach. These three markers spelled finis the second period point-registering.

Not content with the 16 to 6 margin piled up in the first half, the Presidents started off the third quarter with three baskets and a free throw before Delaware could push through a point. Fazio clicked off a side-shot to ignite the third period Prexy rally. Guy followed with a dribble-in and Fazio then added another marker on a foul-line underhander. Guy tabulated another two points on a close-in set shot from a difficult position under the basket. Moncur then ran up two Delaware points on a basket-bound play in which Beach was penalized for the second time. Moncour, however missed his free throw. Stew Young, whose scoring prowess was until this point restricted by the offensive limitations of a guard, dribbled in and zipped through a couple more counters, for the President cause. Montgomery tipped in one for Delaware and the quarter ended with Guy's charity throw missing the net.

An exhibition of speed, elusiveness and heads-up basketball was staged by Rex Kilbourn at the beginning of the final frame. Snatching the sphere from a Delaware man, he raced half the floor to put through two points. Delaware was able to work the ball to the immediate proximity of the Harding basket, but the tall Prexies got away with some first class basketball-[illegible]. The ball was passed to Kilbourn, who again outdistanced Delaware men and added another basket. Young then laid in a two-pointer. Moncur missed a foul shot but compensated for that miscue by tallying two baskets, the first on a one-hander and the second on a long, angling net-swisher. Kilbourn terminated Harding scoring with a free throw which found its mark. Richmond missed a for-nothing toss as the last chance for an additional Delaware score evaporated.

Don Stark, accomplished sophomore forward, led point-making in the reserve preliminary with six goals and a free throw for 13 markers. Five of these baskets came in the third period. Bell topped Delaware reserves with six points.

Tuesday night, both Harding and Delaware encounter their second opponents of the season. The Presidents play host to Columbus North on the Edison floor and Willis entertains Ostrander.

The Delaware team is under the direction of a new coach, Dave Rayburn, who is assisted by Bill Thomas.

Spectators Miss Tumbling Squad

[illegible] delights of the opening Harding basketball game.

The entertainment furnished throughout the 1942-43 Harding home basketball season by the school tumbling squad directed by Vic Dorris was a noticeably missing factor at last night's opener with Delaware. Last season the tumbling gymnasts won the plaudits of local sports fans for their widely-diversified feats and strength and skill between halves of all President contests played in the Edison gym. This year, however, because of the unpredictable draft status of Dorris, Harding physical education supervisor and football coach, no tumbling squad was organized. Dorris is expecting a call to the colors by Uncle Sam at almost any time.

* * *

Ted Turney, referee for both the varsity and reserve games last night, is athletic director of Heidelberg college in Tiffin, O. He is a brother of the late Miss Mable Turney, former member of the Harding High school faculty.

* * *

Bruce Cowgill, who was expected to be mainspring of the Delaware High five this winter, was graduated last month and is now a student at Ohio Wesleyan university. He played in the Bishops' football game with Patterson Field.

* * *

It seems that countless Harding pupils were disappointed over not being able to attend last night's game because they were a trifle late in purchasing tickets, only 100 of which are "Rationed" to local high school students. Fifty ducats go to the visiting schools and the remaining 100 are sold to Marion adults. Tickets for the Columbus North game Tuesday night went on sale at Markert & Lewis Clothing store on East Center street this morning.

Marion Players Named to A.P. All-Ohio Team

Five from Here on Squad; District Also Well Represented.

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 4 — Ten seniors and one junior—each 17 years old—met the football heights today by being awarded first team places on the 1943 Associated Press All-Ohio high school squad.

Only one of about each 1,500 players in the state reached the first team, recognized as official by the Ohio High School Football Coaches association. More than 17,000 players were considered in the balloting, in which 300 coaches, 80 newspapermen and about 100 officials participated.

One Junior on 1st Team

Joe Pujazon, Canton McKinley's classy back, was the only junior able to crack the all-star lineup, but two parochial school stalwarts were elected for the first time. The parochial entrants are Charles Wolf, six-foot four-inch end of Cincinnati St. Xavier, and Paul Falter, outstanding guard for Columbus Aquinas.

Scintillating backs were plentiful this season, but the balloting finally centered on Gene Derricotte, Negro quarterback for Defiance; Paul Jackson, who paced Newark's Wildcats through an undefeated-untied season; Dick Flanagan of Sidney, who is being trailed by a host of talent-seeking college coaches, and Canton's Pujazon.

No team was able to win more than a single first team position. Massillon topped the squad, however, with single berths on the first and second teams, and two on the third, while Lorain, Newark and Toledo Waite, all unbeaten and untied, placed boys on the first and second teams.

Line Averages 183

The first string line averages 183 pounds, and the backs 173. The team boasts everything, being amply armed for tight defense and high-scoring offense. Although scoring was not the most necessary requisite for a first-team ball-toting berth, the four backs piled up 473 points during the campaign.

Massillon's fine Negro tackle, Dick Arrington, led the balloting and assumed the role of the state's No. 1 gridder along with the first team captaincy. Jack Yarger, Newark guard, won the second team captaincy, and Jack Mackey of Port Clinton achieved the leadership of the third string.

Season Just Ended Saw Some Strange Plays on Gridiron

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—Probably the most talked-about play of the 1943 gridiron season was Steve Lach's pass that enabled Great Lakes to whip Notre Dame when the Irish were just a half minute away from being one of the great all-time football teams.

At least two other games ended in even more spectacular fashion, however, and only the fact that Lach's heave ruined a perfect season for Notre Dame lifted it out of the ordinary 46-yard pass-and-run play class, a survey of the season spectacular plays by The Associated Press showed today.

There were only 65 seconds to go when Notre Dame took a 14-12 lead and the Irish kicked off out of bounds. Lach completed one pass to the 46 then, with 35 seconds left, he uncorked another long one and Paul Anderson gathered it in seven yards from the goal and romped across with no one near him.

Joe Makar and Dick Tuscnak of Maryland improved considerably on that performance by connecting on an 89-yard pass and run in the last 10 seconds to beat Wake Forrest 13-7 and Ohio State didn't win over Illinois until some 12 minutes after the game ended.

Maryland's Makar made his pass from the 11-yard line to the 25 and halfback Tuscak ran the remaining 75 yards.

Ohio State's triumph came on what was perhaps the "screwiest" play of a season marked by several time mixups due to the failures of official clocks. The game apparently had ended in a 26-26 tie and the teams had left the field when the officials came up with the ruling that Illinois had been offside on the final play.

Called back from the dressing rooms, the players line up again, and John Stungis, a third-string quarterback who had celebrated his 18th birthday the day before, kicked a field goal from the 23-yard line to make the final score 29-26. It was the first field goal the Ohio State youngster ever had kicked.

Four-Team Tie for First Place Exists in County Cage League

Morral, Kirkpatrick, Caledonia and Claridon Deadlocked As Result of Second Victories.

Four teams—Morral, Kirkpatrick, Caledonia and Claridon—are deadlocked for first place in the Marion county basketball league after their second loop victories of the season were recorded in games played last night.

Morral, fresh from a 52 to 22 thumping of Waldo, annexed a 32 to 28 win over Martel in a contest played on the latter's floor. Kirkpatrick dealt a 30 to 18 loss to Prospect at the Kirkpatrick gym, Caledonia downed Meeker 21 to 17 at Meeker, and Claridon defeated LaRue, last year's county champ, 25 to 21, at LaRue.

Pleasant hung up its first triumph of the season by decisioning Agosta 36 to 17 and Green Camp served up a 15 to 11 licking to Waldo.

A. Augenstein, Claridon center, paced his team with nine points in its victory over LaRue, the defending titlist. Borish topped LaRue scorers with eight points. This game was a close one all the way but a 4 to 2 Claridon fourth quarter margin proved too much for LaRue.

Landis Reopens Cox Case

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 — High Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the star of baseball's mid-winter production now playing the local boards, put on the final show of the run today by switching his role from "the wrecker of the revolution" to a repeat performance in the diamond's "Philadelphia story."

Two days after his greatest triumph in putting down a rebellion that threatened his baseball reign for the first time in 22 years, the white-haired judge shared top billing in today's offering with William D. (I used to play for Yale) Cox, recently resigned president of the Phillies.

Two weeks ago, in the premiere of his Philadelphia story, Landis ousted Cox from baseball for life for alleged betting on Philly ball games, and now Cox says there was positively nothing to it.

The two of them — the high commissioner and William were on stage together in today's scene, sitting across the table from each other at a hearing which Cox requested to clear himself and which the judge granted to let him try.

Through an attorney — Lloyd Paul Stryker—Cox asked for the hearing last Saturday, saying he never made a cash wager on the Phils' games, despite Landis' statement that the New York lumberman had told him on Nov. 3 and again a week later, that he had made "between 15 and 25 bets of from $25 to $100 from the time the 1943 season started through May 20.

And, on Nov. 23, in a radio broadcast, Cox said he had made a few "sentimental bets" on the Phils. These admissions came, Landis said, weeks after Cox, at the first hearing in the commissioner's investigation in mid-August, had denied betting.

On Nov. 23, Landis announced Cox's banishment from baseball and the same day the Phillies' directors approved the sale of Cox's stock in the club to Robert R. M. Carpenter Jr., young Wilmington, Del., sportsman, and the election of Carpenter to the presidency.

Landis said Stryker, in asking for today's hearing told him Cox originally made admissions of betting to a certain man in the Phillies' organization in order to test this fellow's loyalty, and it was on this premise that he came to the hearing today.

The judge's announcement of the reopening of "the Cox case" put the final fancy icing on the cake to a set of winter meetings that had only one real player deal — the sale of Indian Bob Johnson by the Washington Senators to the Boston Red Sox—but came up with more political furore than either a baseball conclave or a national party convention had ever seen.

Out of it all, however, Landis paraded more powerful than ever, as was evidenced when the magnates yesterday approved his suggestion to fine clubs who rent their ball parks to teams using players in violation of rules. They gave this the okay after Landis suggested they'd better do it—because he was going to enforce it anyway. "The head" obviously handles a big stick.

Bette Davis Star of Film Showing At Ohio Theater

"Guadalcanal Diary" To Open Seven-Day Stand Friday.

Now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater is "Old Acquaintance," with Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins as the co-stars.

The story tells of a woman's loyalty for a faithless friend. Bette Davis is cast as Kit Marlowe, successful novelist, and Miss Hopkins is seen as Millie Drake, childhood playmate.

The play opens with Kit visiting her home town and meeting Millie again. Although she is happily married, Millie is jealous of Kit and secretly tries to pattern her life after hers. She lives in luxury for a number of years, but possessive attitude turns her husband and daughter against her and she is left alone with her success and wealth.

Victory is the key word of "Guadalcanal Diary," starting Friday for seven days. The picture is the film story of America's opening offensive against the Japs.

The opening scene is on a quiet Sunday in mid-Pacific. Father Donnelly, former All-America from Notre Dame, is conducting services for the Protestant men aboard. Soon the "grapevine" passes along the word that they are soon to land on an island occupied by the Japs, and in a matter of hours it is revealed to be Guadalcanal. Just before dawn a few days later, the Marines pile into their landing barges and head for shore.

From this graphic beginning, the film tells the stirring drama of America's first smashing victory against Japan, and tells it through the eyes of Father Donnelly, Preston Foster "Taxi" William Bendix, who longs for Flatbush and "them beautiful bums" and "Hook" Malone, Lloyd Nolan.

Hitch-Hiking Youths Suspects in Theft Case

Two 14-year-old boys, Charles J Dickerson and Walter H West, both of Toledo, were on their way back to that city yesterday after being picked up by highway patrolmen early Thursday afternoon.

The runaways were reported to the patrol when they tried to thumb a ride with a Marion woman just north of town on Route 23. She stopped to pick the boys up but after she questioned them they refused to get in the car. The Marion woman notified the patrol officers and the boys were found as they emerged from a field they had crossed in a attempt to evade the authorities.

A check with Toledo officials and the juvenile court revealed that the boys were wanted on a charge of petty larceny. A small sum of money had been taken from a Toledo store and the boys were suspected.

MARJORIE MAIN as a [illegible] and James Cagney as a crusading [illegible] are seen in this shot from "Johnny Come Lately" [illegible] showing at the Palace Sunday through Wednesday.

7,000 Acres at War Plant To Be Leased Again for Farm Use

Considerably more [illegible] of the 12,500-acre Scioto Ordnance Plant recently [illegible] Dec 31, will be leased for agricultural use within the next few months, it was announced [illegible].

L. L. Shandoin, [illegible] the U. S. Army Engineers [illegible] division, has set up [illegible] on the Ordnance [illegible] and is now ready to negotiate three-year leases for [illegible] land surrounding the [illegible] works.

In announcing that he is now ready to [illegible] leases, Mr. Shandoin said approximately 7,000 acres of [illegible] will be leased much in the same manner as leases were issued [illegible] ago [illegible] plant [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible]. The acreage now available is the same that was leased for farm use this year on a one year basis.

Office at Plant

Marion county farmers, including those whose land was absorbed for the building of the gigantic plant, wishing to arrange for the leasing of land may contact Mr. Shandoin in Building A D 8 in the administration area of the plant.

The new leases will become effective immediately following the expiration of existing leases held now by some 30 farmers and will be made for terms of three years ending March 1, 1947.

The general terms of the new leases, Mr. Shandoin said, will be practically the same as those executed last spring with the exception that the farmer will be required to set up a crop rotation program. The lessees will be required to plant 25 per cent or more of their total acreage in soil restoring crops.

Insurance On Buildings

Also it will be necessary for the lessee to take out insurance on any buildings available. The insurance is to cover the United States in the event of loss by fire [illegible]. The [illegible] of the [illegible] will be [illegible] the [illegible] value of the property [illegible].

Mr. Shandoin said the terms of rental payments will be [illegible] as [illegible] the leases previously executed for ordnance plant farm land.

Mr. Shandoin's office in the administration area will be open daily from 8:30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. Persons interested in obtaining any of the land which will be available must appear in person.

Personnel Named For Green Camp Scout Troop

STOCK LEADERS SLOWER TODAY

Favorite Issues Hesitate, but Not Enough To Show Weakness.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—Leading stocks were hesitant in today's market without exhibiting any [illegible] weakness.

Irregularly sagging tendencies predominated at the opening and minor fractional declines were well distributed near the close. Transfers of around 300,000 shares were among the smallest since early September.

While holders generally were reluctant to liquidate on any real scale, the inclination was to stand aside or keep commitments light either way pending news of decisions reached by the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conferences in Iran.

Bidding cropped up here and there for scattered favorites. Year-end tax adjustments continued as a minor [illegible] brake. Some profit taking on the three-day recovery was a restraining factor.

Among the few wide stock jumpers was American Distilling which ran up 3 points before meeting resistance. Occasional gains included Chesapeake & Ohio, Texas Co., Republic Steel, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft and General Electric.

On the offside the greater part of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Western Union "A," N. Y. Central, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck and Eastman Kodak.

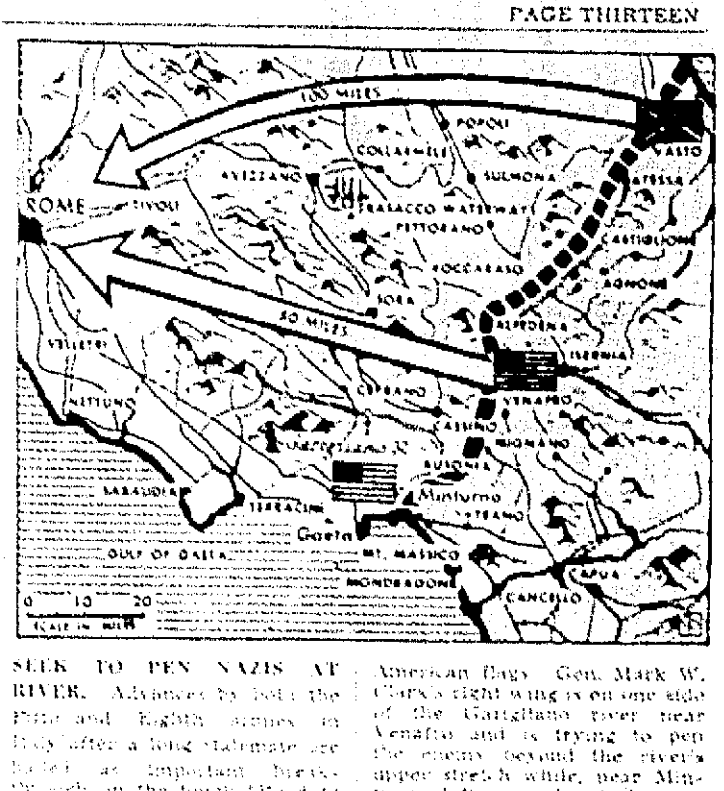
Small Town Papers Reject Subsidy Idea

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—Small town publishers mustered a[illegible] today against a treasury department [illegible] that authorization of a $25,000,000 government war bond advertising program would amount to subsidization of the rural press and would throw insurmountable obstacles in the path of future bond sales.

In opening testimony yesterday before the house ways and means committee the publishers indorsed [illegible] legislation authorizing expenditure of $30,000,000 annually to promote bond sales through paid newspaper advertisements.

Spokesmen for the National Editorial association, representing thousands of small papers, told the committee yesterday the paid [illegible] program was necessary to carry the bond program into rural and farming areas. They emphatically denied that government payments would interfere with free editorial expression by editors.



SEEK TO PEN NAZIS AT RIVER. Advances by both the Fifth and Eighth armies in Italy after a long stalemate are hailed as important breakthrough on the tough "Road to Rome." Attention is being centered on the area at the left of this map between the two American flags. Gen. Mark W. Clark's right wing is on one side of the Garigliano river near Venafro and is trying to pen the enemy beyond the river's upper stretch while, near Minturno, left wing already has the Nazis in a pen. At extreme right, the British are driving slowly ahead.

HOG EMBARGO AT CHICAGO CONSIDERED

Worst Jam in History of Big Yards Causes Concern.

By CHARLOTTE INGALLS
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—An embargo on the shipment of hogs to the Chicago Union Stockyards may be required if supplies are not cleared over the week-end, livestock observers said today.

While fresh receipts of hogs this week have not been excessive, the number of hogs bought at outside markets and shipped here direct, to packers have been large enough to meet slaughter house requirements.

These "direct" shipments, plus the arrival of salable head, have created the worst jam in the history of meat processing plants here. Packers have been unable to slaughter all offerings, and as a result, many hogs are being held over each day in the yards.

The government is reported to have a plan already set up on an embargo to go into effect unless the situation becomes less serious within the next few days.

Packers are running at capacity in killing to clean up the supplies on hand.

The cost of hogs held in the yards unsold is considerable and the loss is taken by producers who own the animals. There is danger of pneumonia affecting the animals, which means government condemnation, plus the heavy cost of feed and the shrinkage of as much as five pounds a head if kept for more than a short time in the pens.

Choice medium weight and weighty fed steers and yearlings were strong to 25 cents higher this week. The extreme top of $17.00 was the highest since July. Prices worked lower on all weights of hogs, due to the over-supply, although the government supported weights topped at $13.75. The week's lamb top was $14.50.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

PHILIP VERITZEN'S unhurried poise was proof against my father's intimation of "strange news" for him.

"I am all ages to hear it," he said lightly.

Then he crossed the room to my chair and bending, kissed my outstretched hand with his old-world graceful charm.

"You are looking a bit distrait, my dear girl," he said solicitously. "I trust this strange news is not something which will affect you adversely."

All Take Chairs

"I am sure it won't," I told him, and then when he had shaken hands cordially with Dicky and my father, they settled him in the easiest chair.

My father took one opposite him while Dicky and I, like children minding our manners, took chairs near the charmed circle, yet not of it.

The Chief lost no time in coming to the point.

"Phil," he said, "I promised you that you would be able to discharge Redfield before the noon hour should pass."

Something in my father's tone ruffled the great impresario's composure, and he spoke quickly.

"You don't mean," he said, with evident alarm, "that anything has happened to interfere with that plan? Why, Mary is all ready to go back, and John Hayes has been told he is to have Redfield's role tonight, and—"

Change In Plan

"And he will have it," my father said calmly. "But things have happened which make my original plan inadvisable, I know the new one is going to be distasteful to you, but I am going to ask you to let Redfield resign today instead of firing him, and also I'm requesting you to play a sympathetic role, telling him you're sorry to see him go, and that when he wishes to return, his place will be ready for him."

Philip Veritzen sprang to his feet with such angry force that his chair skidded away from him, and would have overturned if it had been of lighter weight.

"Have you gone insane, Charles?" he demanded. "I could have managed postponing his dismissal, if I knew it were coming soon. But to let that—polecat resign, and be told he can have his job back whenever he wishes—I have never said that to any actor or actress in my life except for the gravest emergency involving life or death, and I'm not going to haul down the banner of the Veritzen organization and trail it in the dust before Stephen Redfield at this late date!"

Veritzen Sputtering

He was positively sputtering when he finished, but my father did not interrupt him by a single word, simply sat looking quietly at him. Dicky nudged me, and I returned the nudge with interest, for we both realized we were witnessing something about which we had often jested—the taming of Philip Veritzen by my father.

The Chief did not speak for at least two seconds after the great impresario's voice ran down, and though Veritzen tried for composure there were little signs which told me he was distinctly jittery under my father's steady gaze.

"Perhaps I didn't quite understand you, Charles," he said at last, a bit uncertainly.

"You did and you didn't, Philip," my father returned. "There will never be a chance of Redfield's returning to your organization. In fact, he never again will appear in any theater.

Explains Plan

"But," my father's voice deepened, and there was steel in it. "I have [illegible] that I must [illegible] with Milner [illegible] everything [illegible]. For that reason I am going to send Margaret on a [illegible] errand to him in a few minutes. She is going to tell him that I have discovered the forgery of the note [illegible] and his receiving [illegible]. In return for keeping you in ignorance of these things, and for my refraining from prosecuting him, she will propose to him that he resign temporarily from your organization, and also, that he keep me informed of everything Milner does."

Philip Veritzen's jaw did not drop, but he was perilously near to that action.

"I suppose," he said, after a second, "that you would not propose this unless it were vital to your plans."

"Your supposition is eminently correct," my father said, with a smile that relieved the situation, and gave Veritzen his "out."

"Then, my dear Charles," he said. "Of course I will do what you wish."

Tuberculosis

WE ARE fighting many wars. Man has always been waging war on the diseases which afflict him and still is. But whereas in former days he fought blindly and without organization, our modern campaigns against disease show planning and a worldwide front.

None of the campaigns is better organized than the one against tuberculosis, few have achieved more success or have better prospects. You are not taxed directly for this war, but you have the opportunity to contribute by the purchase Christmas seals sold by the National Tuberculosis Association.

Our knowledge of the cause, diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis has evolved slowly. In many respects present beliefs are very different from what they formerly were. In my early days of practice, thirty odd years ago, diagnosis depended upon skill in listening to the chest with the stethoscope and find the germs in the sputum under the microscope. Treatment was by rest, fresh air and extra feedings. Nowadays diagnosis is largely by x-ray. We know that is the only way to catch any large number of positive cases.

Treatment Largely Surgical

Treatment of tuberculosis of the lungs today is largely surgical. Under the old system of rest, fresh air and extra feeding, the patient all too often made only a specious recovery. He increased in weight, he lost his fatigue and his cough, but when he resumed activity the cavities in his lungs opened up again and he once more broke down.

As long ago as 1882 Forlanini, an Italian physician, advocated that air be introduced around the lung, pus squeezed out and the cavities flattened. But it was not until 30 years later that the method was used at all generally. Now it is used in every clinic and tuberculosis hospital known to me. The method is called artificial pneumothorax.

The principle of the treatment is simply a drastic application of the old principle of rest. We used to put the tuberculous patient to bed because in bed he took four to ten less breathes per minute than when he was up and around. The movements of his lung were arrested just so much. But with air put in the chest around the outside of the lung under pressure the lung is squeezed down and actually put at rest. The walls of cavities are pressed together so that scar tissue is formed and the cavity disappears.

Results Much Better

The treatment has to be continued and kept up for several years, but the results are much better than those which were obtained by the old system of bed rest and fresh air alone. Although, of course, we still continue to supplement the treatment by a year's bed rest in fresh air with sufficient but not extra feeding.

Sometimes on account of adhesions the lung will not collapse under air pressure alone. In that case surgical procedures are instituted which contemplates collapse of one entire chest wall.

At any rate it can be said that the present treatment of tuberculosis of the lung is largely surgical.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. V. M.: I am 42 years of age and have had a bad case of bronchial asthma. My son is in the Marines in California and would perfer me to go there.

Answer: California is the answer to most cases of bronchial asthma I know about.

D. W. T.: What causes a fast heart? How may it be slowed down?

Answer: Goiter, tuberculosis, any fever or infection, certain intrinsic heart conditions, or pure nerves. To slow down treat the cause.

M. K.: Is violet light good for curing tuberculosis or does it spread the disease?

Answer: If you mean tuberculosis of the skin it may do good. If you mean tuberculosis of the lungs it has no effect at all and is dangerous because it keeps the patient from getting really helpful treatment.

OH, DOROM, YOU SHOULDN'T HAVE DONE THIS!
COME ON--
WE MUST TRICK THE ELVIN GUARDS, DOLOPA, PRETEND THERE'S A FIRE HERE. SCREAM FOR HELP!
FIRE! ELVINS, HELP ME OUT!
THE ELVIN GUARDS COME RUNNING TOWARD THE PRISON HUT, WHERE FLASH IS HIDING
ELVINS, HURRY! ONE OF YOU SEND FOR THE FIRE SQUAD!
COME ON!
NEXT WEEK: ELVIN TRAP

WHAT'S SO STRANGE ABOUT AN ORDINARY PAIR OF EYE-GLASSES?
ORDINARY, NOTHING! THESE METAL-RIMMED SPECS ARE OF AN UNUSUAL DESIGN!
THE OFFICE VISITOR I HAD FROM THE FOREIGN RELATIONS BUREAU, WHO WAS CHECKING ON THE ACTIVITIES OF THE OCTOPUS, WORE GLASSES JUST LIKE THESE! HE'S-- LOOK! SMOKE!
MY OFFICE IS ON FIRE! COME ON!
MY RECORDS! THEY'RE DESTROYED!
NOTHING LEFT BUT A PAIR OF METAL-RIMMED SPECTACLES!

MRS HEDGEWELL, I BELIEVE YOU AND COLONEL HOOFER ARE ACQUAINTED.
DAN HOOFER! DO YOU REMEMBER ME?
INDEED, I DO--MRS. HEDGEWELL! YOU HAVEN'T CHANGED A BIT! --IF ANYTHING, THE YEARS HAVE ADDED TO YOUR CHARM!
JIMMY MURPHY'S
YOU MUST HAVE RE-DISCOVERED THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH!
DAN, YOU ALWAYS WERE A GREAT ONE FOR FLATTERY.
WITH HOOFER'S HELP, I'LL HAVE HER SIGN IN NO TIME!

THERE'S NO SCHOOL TODAY - IT WILL MEAN BIG BOX-OFFICE RECEIPTS IF YOU LET THE CIRCUS SCHOOLHOUSE LEAD THE STREET PARADE -
BUT MISS JENTEL AND THE KIDS MIGHT NOT LIKE IT!
THEY'LL LOVE IT! MISS JENTEL IS A NATURAL-BORN TROUPER! THE KIDS WILL BE TICKLED PINK!
GOLLY, THERE'S THE KIND OF SCHOOL I'D LIKE!
I WISH I WERE A GREAT CIRCUS STAR LIKE ANNIE ROONEY!

RATS! MAGGIE HAS THAT RADIO GOING WITH THAT OPERA MUSIC ON-MAYBE IF I READ-I'LL GIT ME MIND OFF THE MUSIC-!
I CAN'T STAND IT ANY LONGER-I'LL BEG MAGGIE TO TURN IT OFF OR I'LL GO MAD-
WHY-MRS. JIGGS ISN'T HOME-SIR-SHE WENT OUT HOURS AGO-I GUESS SHE FORGOT TO TURN OFF THE RADIO!
HUH?
